U.S. Expected To Extend Ban Upon Weapons Tests

Only Short Periods Due Under Plan

Administration Will Maintain Pressure On Russian Regime

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower now seems certain to order an extension of the U.S. ban on nuclear weapons tests — but for a few weeks only. Further extensions could follow.

Administration leaders are prepared to go along with a United Nations resolution, adopted Saturday, opposing any resumption of nuclear tests during negotiations for a permanent, policed test ban.

But the negotiations themselves are expected to come to a climax at Geneva in the first half of 1960 and a breakdown of the conference, now more than a year old, would bring a quick resumption of underground nuclear test explosions by the United States.

Eisenhower already has extended for two months—until Dec. 31—the one-year U.S. respite he originally put into effect at the end of October 1958. He thus has more than a month during which he can act to keep the ban in effect.

One tactical objective of the administration at the present time is to try to maintain the pressure on the Soviet government to keep the Geneva negotiations moving along.

The latest word on administration thinking came Sunday night from Chairman John A. McCone of the Atomic Energy Commission in a television interview (NBC-Meet the Press).

Opposing any prolonged extension on the present test ban, he said any such action should be taken on a week-to-week basis.

McCone said he was opposed to an indefinite ban on nuclear weapons testing in the absence of an inspection system. But he said that the present suspension could be continued for short periods.

The U.N. General Assembly in New York voted 60-1 Saturday for a resolution asking all countries to refrain from atomic test explosions during the three-power talks at Geneva.

McCone said he thought the United States was bound by this resolution to refrain from testing while the talks continued.

School Band's Center Looted

Loss Of $3,000 Set In Cumberland Case

Thieves stole 14 musical instruments valued at about $3,000 over the weekend from New Cumberland High School, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported today.

Eight of the wind instruments, owned by students, are not believed to be covered by insurance, as are the remaining six owned by the school, according to Principal Curtis P. Smith.

Deputies began checking clues today in the theft, which occurred between Saturday at 4 p. m. and 12:30 a. m. Sunday. Wiley Smith, the school janitor, noticed a lock was broken off a door on the band practice room.

Stolen instruments owned by the school include an alto clarinet, tenor saxophone, coronet, bassoon, tenor saxophone and a bass clarinet. Two trumpets, two trombones, an alto saxophone, a tenor saxophone and two clarinets are owned by students.

Deputies today mailed out "fliers" listing descriptions and serial numbers of most of the instruments to pawn shops in the area.

Smith said the thieves apparently were discriminating in their choice of instruments. Several new instruments were left untouched, as was a sum of cash hidden in a desk.

A crowbar or other instrument was believed used to pry the lock off the band practice room.

PROBE CONTINUES IN EXPLOSION. Firemen work in the midst of the debris left by fire and explosions that wrecked a huge chemical plant at Oppama, Japan. 'Dises' Spin During Quiz Into Payoffs

Some Of Record Spinners Are Fired Because Of Gifts

NEW YORK (AP)—Disc Jockey Alan Freed, a pioneer in the rock 'n' roll craze who has been fired by a New York radio station, meets today with officials of a television station here to talk about payola.

While congressional investigators probed payola—under-the-table payments by record companies to disc jockeys for plugging certain records on their programs—some stations took quick action.

In Detroit, radio station WJBK Sunday fired disc jockey Thomas Clay who admitted taking payola. Dale Young, master of ceremonies on WJBK-TV's Detroit Bandstand, resigned. Young did not comment.

In New York, radio station WABC fired Freed Saturday after he refused to answer questions put to the station's record spinners. Freed insisted he was honest and it was an insult to ask him.

In Philadelphia, John C. Moler, managing director of the Storer Radio station WIBC, announced that disc jockey Joe Niagara has resigned. Moler declined to elaborate on the reason for resignation. Officials of WNEW-TV here, which carries a Freed show, asked the disc jockey to meet with them today.

"We want to know what the situation is," said WNEW-TV general manager Bennett Korn. "We don't believe in prejudging a man. On the other hand, we don't intend to be soft or ostrich-like in our decision."

Meanwhile, top officials of the National Broadcasting Co. and Time, Inc., collided over the TV quiz show fixes.

A Time magazine article Nov. 16 accused the networks of ignoring a story in a 1957 issue of Time which hinted some quiz shows were rigged. NBC Board Chairman Robert W. Sarnoff Sunday retorted that several Time-owned stations also ignored the article.

Weston C. Pullen Jr., vice president for broadcasting of Time, Inc., promptly conceded that Time, Inc., should have dropped the quiz shows from its stations.

"I regret that we did not," said Pullen. "Like Mr. Sarnoff, and others, we learned a lesson." Time, Inc., owns four television stations—KLZ-TV, Denver, a Columbia Broadcasting System affiliate; WCTN-TV, Minneapolis, an American Broadcasting Co. affiliate; WFBM-TV, Indianapolis, an NBC affiliate; and WOOD, Grand Rapids, Mich., affiliated with both NBC and ABC. Time recently sold KTVT, Salt Lake City, to Columbia Pictures.

Driver Swerves Auto Onto Judge's Property

A New Brighton driver who lost control of his car in trying to avoid a collision on Route 30 west of Lisbon Sunday swerved into the front yard and damaged shrubbery at the home of County Judge James L. MacDonald.

Frank Brown, 49, of New Brighton is slated for a hearing before Judge MacDonald on a charge of failure to halt in the assured clear distance as a result of the mishap.

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Brown tried to decrease speed for a slower vehicle ahead, lost control and his car veered off the highway into the front yard of the judge about three miles west of Lisbon at 9:50 a. m. yesterday.

Patrick Lostue, 29, of Youngstown was cited for reckless operation by the patrol after he lost control of his car at 3:50 a. m. Sunday on Route 14 and struck a threat that if she didn't someone would call on her husband's commanding officer.

Mrs. Walsh said the bank's branch manager, Helen Whitcomb, called her employer and told him the bank would go to her husband's commanding officer if the check was not returned immediately.

Later, Mrs. Walsh said, the bank called her directly and asked to bring back the check. "I explained," Mrs. Walsh said, "that I couldn't leave my job right away, but would go to the bank as soon as I could. Then they said they'd send the bonding company over to pick up the check. I said

Arson Linked To 2 Blazes In Peoria Hotels

4 Are Missing After Fire Rages Again In Racially-Mixed Area

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Four persons were missing today in a second hotel fire within 24 hours in a racially mixed neighborhood near Peoria's downtown district.

While authorities searched the debris of today's fire for the missing persons, the state began a hearing into Sunday's fire.

"I think it could be arson in both cases," said Albert Boulton, the city's chief fire inspector.

He said evidence of a "kerosene-like fluid" was found near the scenes of both fires, which occurred within a six-block area.

Sunday's blaze burned out an apartment hotel being prepared for Negro tenants. No one was injured in that fire. Damage was estimated at $300,000 to $400,000.

Today's fast-spreading fire engulfed the Arion Hotel, which catered to white tenants, and spread to two taverns and two homes before it was brought under control.

The missing included Louise Scott, Negro, who had been hired as a sitter for the 5-month-old son of a resident of the hotel; two unidentified men and a man named Al Cooper, of Peoria.

At least six persons fled from the three-story brick hotel, including Sarah Hawk, the hotel clerk. Police said she was confused about the number of persons in the hotel at the time of the fire and that the hotel's record books were incomplete.

Aides Chosen For City Court By New Judge

4 Are Missing After Fire Rages Again In Racially-Mixed Area

Municipal Judge-elect Samuel M. Chertoff today announced appointment of three of the staff of four that will work with him when he assumes office Jan. 1.

The appointees are: Wilbert Taylor of Price St., Liverpool Township police constable for the last 12 years, to serve as bailiff; Wilbur Harmon, 1179 Erie St., a decorating killman at Edwin M. Knowles China Co., to become clerk, and Miss Lillian Sablack, 2034 Ohio Ave., to serve as deputy clerk and reporter.

Taylor will replace O. Earl Greenawald, bailiff for 10 years, and Harmon will succeed Harold L. Powell, who has been clerk 12 years. The court now has two women deputy clerks, Mrs. Mary Wolfe and Mrs. Jean Sauer.

Taylor served as Atty. Chertoff's campaign manager. Harmon, treasurer of IBOP Local 124, is a past commander of both American Legion Post 374 and VFW Post 66 and is a member of the Elks Lodge and the 40 & 8 Society. Married, he is the father of one child.

Miss Sablack is attending Ohio Valley Business College. Graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1954, she worked for a Cleveland law office and later was employed in New York City. She also attended Westminster College in New Wilmington.

The judge-elect said he expects to name the fourth appointee later. The staff will be given the oath Jan. 1, he said.

Burglars Frustrated By Safes At Palestine

LISBON — Thieves failed to break open two safes at the Blocco Iron & Steel Co. of E. Taggart St., East Palestine, over the weekend, but took a clock radio and $10 from a beverage machine, Sheriff Russell VanFossen reported today.

Deputies said thieves pried open the front door of the firm late Saturday night or early Sunday morning and knocked off the combination of one safe and the handle of another.

Cuban Labor Rejects Reds On Committee

Informed Sources, However, Say Some Slip Into Group

HAVANA (AP) — The Cuban Confederation of Labor today elected an executive committee made up entirely of members of Fidel Castro's revolutionary party and rejected a Communist party bid for posts on the labor high command.

Despite the rebuff to the organized Reds, informed sources said the 13-man group elected early today by the 10th National Labor Congress included several former Communists and some Communist sympathizers.

Heading the group is Secretary General David Salvador, Castro's choice installed last Jan. 1 when the revolution triumphed and an outspoken critic of the United States.

The election by a roaring voice vote ended the congress after a tumultuous final session of wrangling which lasted most of the night.

Earlier the congress withdrew the Cuban Confederation from the anti-Communist Inter-American Regional Organization of Workers and set out to organize a new "Revolutionary Confederation of Latin American Workers."

A congress resolution charged the IAROW was under the control of "American imperialism, which has consistently supported all dictators."

The delegates also proposed a handful of other resolutions bristling with attacks on the United States.

These included a denunciation of U.S. "monopolists and the State Department" for "opposing just efforts of the Latin-American people to achieve their rights."

City To Receive $8,000 As Aftermath Of Flood

An $8,000 check for flood damage to the River Rd. last January will be presented to city officials tonight by Civil Defense officials.

The check will be presented during a brief ceremony at 7 in Mayor Fred P. Lawrence's office. It represents about 75 per cent of the $11,000 sought by the city.

Mayor Lawrence, Safety-Service Director Joseph F. Ross, James Walker, city CD director, and Mrs. Edna Sweeney, secretary of the CD organization, will represent the city.

The area CD officials will be headed by Col. Leo McCarthy of Youngstown, 3rd area director, and William Wark, county CD director.

Slides Block Rail, Highway Links In West

90 Passengers Are Trapped 10 Hours When Train Stalls

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Massive rain-caused slides blocked major rail and highway routes across Cascade Mountains today and trapped 90 passengers for 10 hours in a stalled train until they got out by bus on a one-way road.

A woman was killed in a mountain pass highway accident.

Flooding rivers forced evacuation of scores of farm families in northwest Washington valleys.

Three railroads diverted traffic over a combined route south of the trouble zone.

The Milwaukee Road's nine-car Olympian — Hiawatha passenger train was caught between slides Sunday afternoon near Hyak, 60 miles east of Seattle. Buses from Ellensburg, Wash., east of the Cascades, reached the stalled train early today and took the passengers to Spokane for transfer to a makeup train for Chicago.

The buses got through on U.S. Highway 10, restricted to one-way traffic near the slide area where the train was caught.

The Milwaukee, Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads all halted trains on regular routes across the Cascades. They combined to divert traffic on a southern route by way of Pasco and Vancouver, Wash.

Highway traffic piled up on both sides of the Cascades as the major cross-state passes — Snoqualmie, Stevens, White and Blewett — all were closed by slides.

Hazel K. Caddell, 64, of Leavenworth, Wash., was killed on Stevens Pass when her automobile crashed into a truck in a slide area.

Several days of heavy rain followed by a warm chinook wind in the snow-covered mountains caused the flooding. Water from melting snow poured down streams, ditches and ravines in the Cascades.

Boy, 8, Struck In Eye By Pellet From Air Gun

An 8-year-old Henry Ave. boy, struck in the eye by an air gun pellet in a play game of "western draw," was slated for transfer to a Pittsburgh hospital today in an effort to remove the BB.

Leonard Cousin Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cousin of Henry Ave., is in "fairly good" condition at City Hospital, where he was admitted Saturday night with the eye wound.

The youth was visiting at the home of a neighborhood companion when the air gun, held by the other boy, discharged as the two boys tried to "outdraw" each other. The other boy did not know the gun was loaded, his mother said.

Shah Of Iran To Wed Third Time On Dec. 21

Firemen Save Boy Stranded On High Perch

A 13-year-old W. 7th St. boy, apparently pretending to be a mountain climber, was rescued by city firemen from the Pleasant Heights bluff overlooking the old stone quarry in California Hollow Sunday afternoon at 1:48 after he became stranded about 10 feet from the top.

Edward Ryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan, 215 W. 7th St., was clinging to a small branch of a tree on a shale ledge about 100 feet up the face of the bluff when pulled to safety. Except for being badly frightened, the boy, a seventh grader at St. Aloysius Parochial School, was none the worse for the experience.

The family said Edward and another boy whom he won't identify were playing at the base of the cliff when they decided to climb to the top. The other youth made it, but Edward couldn't.

A large crowd gathered in the vicinity when it became known the boy was stranded. Asst. Chief Alfred Van Dyne and Firemen William Lister and Richard Plumley rushed to the scene in the emergency truck.

Using ropes, one of the men went over the edge of the cliff with a life belt to fasten to the youth to haul him to safety. Firemen said the ledge was not wide enough for both his feet. He was holding to the limb and had his heels dug into the shale to keep from falling.

$2,068 Given To Fund Drive

Muscular Dystrophy Total May Increase

A total of $2,068.39 was collected in a house-to-house campaign Sunday afternoon in the 1959 March for Muscular Dystrophy appeal. The figure is expected to increase at least $30, as some solicitors have not reported their collections.

More than 300 volunteers canvassed the city yesterday afternoon from 1:30 to 3:30, according to Mrs. Helen Beck and Mrs. Lois Burdick, co-chairmen.

Mrs. Beck was in charge of the drive in the downtown area, where $1,971.87 was collected. She said two of her solicitors have not reported. Mrs. Burdick said $96.52 was collected in the East End area.

Envelopes were left when no one was found at home. Contributions can be mailed in care of Muscular Dystrophy, Post Office Box 567.

Judge Louis Tobin is serving as honorary chairman for the Columbiana County drive. To bolster the collections, coin containers have been placed in business houses.

Judges From 7 Area Counties To Air Plan For Juvenile Farm

Probate and Juvenile judges in seven area counties have been invited to a meeting Dec. 3 at Steubenville at which a proposed juvenile detention farm will be discussed.

Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool scheduled the meeting after other area juvenile authorities indicated interest in a proposed joint sponsorship of a camp or farm program for juvenile offenders.

A new state law provides counties may establish such a program for youths instead of ordering them to the Boys Industrial School or other institution. The camps or farms would be for minor offenders and would be designed for rehabilitation.

Judge Tobin said he received letters from authorities in the counties in the 18th Congressional District, and on the basis of their interest, scheduled a general meeting at the Fort Steuben Hotel at 2 p. m. Dec. 3.

Judges are expected from Harrison, Belmont, Jefferson, Carroll and Columbiana Counties, along with guests from Stark and Guernsey Counties and a representative of Gov. Michael DiSalle to provide information on the state program.

Judge Tobin earlier pointed out the cost of each county's sponsoring such a camp or farm would be too much of a burden for most counties and has suggested groups of counties operate the program together.

Some of the matters to be considered in the proposed program include the age limit of the young people, methods of screening them, assessment of costs for maintenance, amount of manual and scholastic training, duration of assignment, equipment and authority to terminate the assignment of the youths.

Also to be aired are the type of housing—cottages or barracks—operation authority by the judges or a board of trustees, methods of controlling supervision, types of specialists needed and other factors.

sa, Calif.; a son, Lindsey Riggs of Toronto, R. D. 2, and 13 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Ohio Needs A Welfare Focus

Gov. DiSalle plainly intends to make Ohio ashamed of the things wrong with its welfare institutions. His latest public statement on the subject, this one concerning the program for retarded and mentally ill children, repeats the theme he has used in all his previous observations:

Ohio, a wealthy and progressive state, should be ashamed of the way it has neglected its responsibilities for welfare.

With few exceptions, the governor has found nothing to be proud of in his personal inspection of the state's facilities. The best he has been able to say about them is that some of them are doing remarkably good work under heavy handicaps. The heaviest handicap is shortage of help, though lack of adequate space is almost as heavy.

Yet, no one could say that Ohioans are indifferent to the problem.

Voters and taxpayers in Ohio have supported their state government in all attempts to upgrade welfare institutions.

IN VICINITIES surrounding state institutions, many thousands of people have found the time, the will and the imagination to brighten the lives of Ohioans who were in the state institutions.

They have followed with interest and approved every credible plan for giving a boost to the state's efficiency in performing this grim and seemingly endless chore.

It is not the indifference of Ohioans that has created the unsatisfactory condition which Gov. DiSalle has been calling to attention. He must have learned by this time that what he has brought to attention is as distressing to his fellow Ohioans as it is to him. For example, when he wished a few days ago that it might be possible one day for every inmate of a state institution to have a daily bath, no one protested that such a thing was ridiculous, or that it was a wish that could not be fulfilled.

Ohioans are willing to be their brothers' keepers in the finest sense if they can be given a clear focus of their welfare responsibilities.

THIS STATE has not been made politically aware of what is essentially a sociological problem. Gov. DiSalle has made it his responsibility to say what sometimes was left unsaid in the past because it seemed to be good politics to say as little as possible about the state's "forgotten" men, women and children.

If the net result is to sharpen Ohio's welfare focus so its citizens have a clear concept of what they should be doing that they haven't been doing, the governor's efforts will have been successful.

We're Getting The Hang Of It

This looks like a record-setting winter. Extreme cold in mid-November already has made weather history. Blizzards to the West may be omens of the severe conditions that climatologists have been predicting.

But we should take time to be grateful for the improvements that have given mankind an edge on cold weather. Some of us can remember houses that had no central heating plants. We can remember how things were before thermostatic control. Every winter was a record-breaker for human misery.

We can remember when it was chancy to let an automobile stand overnight in freezing weather, because antifreeze preparations were unknown. We can remember when cars had to be started on cold mornings with priming cups and heat applied to the manifold. It was more trouble than it was worth.

There hasn't always been winter footwear that kept the feet snug and dry. Cold weather eating once was all of a sameness—no variety. Winter clothing used to be unwieldy and heavy. Autos had no heaters of any consequence, factories and mills were unprotected, street cars and trains had stoves. You roasted if you sat close to them, shivered if you moved away.

There was no thermal underwear for outdoorsmen. Lightweight garments that kept out the wind and kept in the heat were still to be designed, as were the materials that were to be put into them. No one had dreamed of an electric blanket, not even Thomas A. Edison.

Romanticists who think it must have been wonderful to sit in front of a big fireplace and roast chestnuts never bother to think about the cold bedrooms that people retired to and the cold houses they lived in when they couldn't sit by the fire. Life in winter was a frustrated quest for comfort, until the robins started to build their nests in May.

See That Junior Reads

By Frank Tripp

The chore of parenthood has become vastly more complicated. It never was simple to wheedle youngsters into reading and homework. Now it approaches a task for a genius.

The day when Junior would speed forth to wreck the family car used to be the major dread of every household. Television has moved anxiety ahead at least 10 years for a parent who dreams to rear a boy or girl equipped to take a worthwhile place in our complex society. They must read to get there.

The scene in the average home today is a far cry from young Abraham Lincoln prone on a log cabin floor, eagerly searching knowledge from borrowed books, by the flickering light of a fire-place.

The scene is less disturbing than the shiftless era it depicts, the habits it instills. Our kids still sprawl full length as did young Abe but there is little yen for knowledge—mostly insatiable desire for thrill and amusement, without effort; neglect even of body-building play.

ALL AROUND them are publications and books for which Lincoln would have given his eye teeth. One's guess is as good as another's whether there ever would have been an Abraham Lincoln had he been beset by the diversions which surround today's youth.

The odds are high that no diversion could overcome the ambition of a Lincoln, then or now. But what of the millions of others without such capacity and urge to learn, that vast majority destined to blunder through life and emerge as dependents upon society? This is no diatribe advocating all work and no play. Some of television is grand for kids. Play and diversion are essentials of a rounded life. The joker lies in the prescription and control of the dosage.

Right there rests the obligation of the parent and a problem vastly more complicated than ever in the past.

We all know men who have blundered through life half equipped; failures compared to what they might have been, because of the indulgence of their parents in childhood. We even know those who curse their parents for laxity.

Such dismal cases came from days of few diversions compared to now. Temptations to be lax with children then did not beset every waking hour, stand on every street corner. In every garage, in every living room, to distract youngsters from the essential things they should be doing to develop their minds and bodies.

HOURS THAT belong to play, reading and homework are being spent absorbing pictures and stories which contribute nothing to their future, much, which children might better not see and hear.

It seems so easy, such a slick way to keep the kids occupied, while we too enjoy ourselves. Yet it engenders indolence and habits that may wreck our children's lives. Most dangerous is the lazy habit of watching and listening at the expense of reading, which is the very foundation of citizenship.

The more youngsters read, beginning as tots with Mother Goose and Peter Rabbit, mounting gradually as their minds develop, the more they will reach and learn through life; by searching knowledge rather than accidentally encountering it as a by-product of some diversion like the picture screen.

The sooner they must leave school, the more important reading becomes. Successful people began early and never stop reading textbooks, classics and old masters for their foundation; newspapers, magazines and current literature to be abreast of the era in which they must compete.

There are few places, none at the top, for the person who doesn't know what's going on in the world. He can't converse intelligently without the newspaper, not even about his neighbors. The newspaper is the poor man's university.

Knowledge is free to every youth who will read; none is so doomed as one who will not. That which one reads cannot be tainted by the suavity, whims or the deception of an airway narrator. Only savages hand down shifty legends by word of mouth.

Parents who condone or abet ignorance of the printed word, both past and current, are more than enemies of their own kin. They are enemies of society.

If you love your children, insist that they read. Some day they will bless you for it.

By H. I. Phillips

of the striped-pants boys the public sees all the traditional color of the ballyhoo man, the bathing gals, the razzle-dazzle and the general fun. Cultural appeal is greater than ever before. Interest in wonders of science is keen. But a fair without a midway mood will not help the box office.

It eases the strain at an exhibit if Jules Verne sneaks across the street and sees what the dolls are doing. The song, "There is nothing like a dame," still applies to show biz on all levels, despite this day of sputniks, automation machines, etc.

Let's be honest, which would get you out of an armchair first, "See the world's largest launching pad and spaceship" or "This way to the amazing performance of the exotic queen of three continents"?

Not so dignified, Mr. Deegan, please. Culture is culture, men are men, women are women and fairs are fairs.

The Once Over

Mr. Tom Deegan, Jr., chairman of the World's Fair Committee:

The more I think of your proposal to ban top hats, striped pants, etc., on officials at ceremonials, and your belief there must be no midway note, the dizzier I get.

You say the top-hat motif scares customers. Hasenpfeffer! The informal costumes of most people are much more frightening. Blue jeans, open shirts and leather coats can be alarming.

Fairs bring out all kinds of attire, most of it not too pleasing to the naked eye. (And I hope you do not intend to ban the naked eye.)

WHEN THE PUBLIC sees pictures of officials in top hats, etc., and even with a gardenia tossed in, it brushes it off as routine and knows a fair is not an international exhibit of Beau Brummels. Behind the photos

Santa Could Use A Helper

TV Probers Move To Bigger Talent

By Victor Riesel

Those television quiz quizzers, known as the "Oren Harris Committee" have had some talent scouts of their own out in the field. And they've come up with some bad actors—right out of the mob. So the heat's not off. Where the McClellan Committee left off, the TV committee apparently has taken over as a result of complaints from all over the nation.

This committee has wider jurisdiction than the McClellan outfit did. To start, it put some of its investigators into the west to investigate the rucking rackets. Then it moved this unit into the New York City office of the old McClellan staff at 346 Broadway. Harris committee counsel Robert Lishman confirmed what some of us had learned of the movements of his staff.

"We're not a prosecuting agency," Lishman told me the other day. "But we can look into complaints we get of violations of the executive agencies' rules. We found considerable violations, for example, of the Interstate Commerce Commission's regulations."

"We've been working out of New York on the ICC's issuance of licenses to truckers there."

THIS CONGRESSIONAL unit, in which are former McClellan committee staffers, soon will move on. Where? There is no limit. There are 31 U.S. government regulatory agencies. They range from the Farm Credit Bureau to the Veterans Administration and the National Labor Relations Board. This is sufficient coverage to blanket the mob, the Mafia and sundry other regional crime syndicates.

Should the Harris committee decide it wants to seek out Mafia angles generally unsearched except by the FBI and some local district attorneys, they could, for example, look into one Joe (Bananas) Bonanno. This fellow is now under federal indictment on charges of attempting to deceive the government on the real purpose of the Apalachin crime convention to which he was a delegate.

How can Mr. Lishman and Chairman Harris—now generally identified only with the TV quiz—get jurisdiction over the Mafia? Simple. One of the regulatory agencies is the Farm Credit Administration.

Bananas has been dabbling in cotton. He has been involved in two land transactions of more than $200,000.

MR. LISMAN and Mrs. Harris are not prosecutors. They are probers seeking defiance of government agencies preparatory to providing Congress with information on needed legislation. Just as they can look into the trucking industry for violations of the Interstate Commerce Commission's regulations on the issuance of licenses to undesirable, they can check the farm and other agricultural records. And in public hearings, at that.

Should they suspect similar violations in the construction of veterans' hospitals, for example, they can move in on that field and probe construction in some areas. All this is under the committee's right to look into the Veterans Administration, which has contracted for such hospitals and may not be aware of the shake-downs which had to be paid in some parts of the country.

Nor need the committee's probe of the FCC's jurisdiction stop with television. It might like to take a look at the New Orleans court records amassed during the trial of Vincent Marcella. This man was tried on charges of making false statements on his application for a two-way radio license for his Jefferson Music Co. A juke box operation.

THE GOVERNMENT charged that Vincent Marcella concealed the fact that the company was a partnership—and that the other Carlos. The federalists then described Carlos as the top mobster in the New Orleans area.

The FBI and the Senate racket busting committee records bolstered the charge. Because an FCC license is involved, THE Harris-Lishman Committee can probe and conduct public hearings into mobster use of radio licenses.

News that Mr. Harris and Mr. Lishman were investigating truckers has brought new complaints from other industries into the "TV Committee" headquarters.

It is now ready to move from rehearsed shows to some real life dramas.

Enforcement Is Needed

By Raymond Moley

With broadcasting presidents and vice presidents up to their highly perishable necks in television's scandals and shortcomings, all sorts of suggestions of remedies have been pouring in. No one except a few congressmen and senators seem to want government censorship to be applied. The drift of opinion is toward some sort of self-regulation by the industry itself.

Ever since the baseball business found itself in trouble and found relief in appointing a "czar" in the person of Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the home remedy of czarism has been suggested for any business-in-a-mess.

Thirty-seven years ago Will Hays was appointed by motion-picture people to do something to save them from state censorship, and he succeeded. He was far from being a "czar" in the Judge Landis sense, but by patience and skill he brought something like decency into films.

Since television resembles the motion picture in that both are entertainment offered to millions, many people have wondered whether this would work in broadcasting.

But before any hasty action is taken by broadcasting in emulating the Hays plan, there should be considered the long, long years of trial and error that passed before self-regulation in the movies became effective, and also the status of motion-picture policing today.

WHEN HAYS TOOK OVER his job, the movies were reeking with foulness and spattered with dirt. The first Hays job was to stem the tide of political censorship. This he did effectively because he had the movie barons adopt a limp imitation of a code of morals called the "Don'ts and Be Carefuls." But the ribald atmosphere of the 1920's still found bizarre portrayal in motion pictures.

Finally, in 1930, there came forward a man, who while dedicated to the motion picture as an institution, was also its severest critic. He was Martin Quigley, editor and publisher of the influential Motion Picture Herald. Cooperating with Hays and with the collaboration of a distinguished Roman Catholic clergyman, the Rev. Father Daniel J. Lord, Quigley produced a new and much more specific and comprehensive code of morality and propriety. This, with the backing of the infinitely persuasive Hays, was adopted by the heads of the industry.

Then came the depression. In the highly competitive motion-picture industry anything that hits the box office immediately turns loose the adrenalin of indecency in the content of the movies produced. And in the four years that followed the pious gesture of adopting the code, the murk descended on the film again.

Finally, a tremendous force was activated on the side of decency and morality, the Roman Catholic Church. In 1934 the Legion of Decency was established by Catholic bishops. The heavy club of a boycott descended in several communities. Other religious bodies such as the Lutherans joined. Frightened, the movie magnates turned to Hays for advice.

The answer by Hays and Quigley was strict enforcement, since the code alone was just a pious resolution by people who were willing to abandon it at the first shadow of hard times.

The movie people agreed to the creation of a Production Code Administration, headed by Joseph I. Breen. Breen, with full power and an endless capacity for tough management, took over the enforcement. That, and only that, created better days and nights in motion-picture entertainment.

A FEW YEARS AGO Breen retired, and in my judgment as a fairly regular movie-goer, things have been worsening again. This opinion is now confirmed by a stiff editorial by Martin Quigley in the Nov. 14 issue of the Motion Picture Herald. He speaks of the "increasing protest and complaint over the moral and social character of some of the subject matter and treatment in screen entertainment" and calls for a revival of real enforcement of the code.

Thus, the events of 1922, 1930, and 1934 are coming again, with a relapse in the movies into the sort of stuff that may stimulate box office but which is not fit for the millions of old and young who look to the motion picture for entertainment.

The lesson in the present TV situation is that we should be very skeptical of good resolutions by the industry. Enforcement is needed—strict, tough enforcement. Good resolutions will never do.

Through The Years

THIRTY YEARS AGO—Three hundred women workers were engaged in the annual Red Cross roll call.

Junior Porter was elected president of the 4-H club of the Elwood and Arroyo district.

TWENTY YEARS AGO—City Solicitor Carroll P. Lynch served as general chairman of the Salvation Army drive.

Members of the senior class of East Liverpool High School were invited to take part in the "most valuable student" contest promoted by the Elks' national foundation.

TEN YEARS AGO—Charles W. Helm of Lisbon was re-elected president of the Columbiana County Agricultural Society.

The organization of a general duty section was approved by the East Liverpool Nurses' Alumnae Association.

Paper money was in circulation many centuries ago. Marco Polo reported that the Chinese were using it when he visited their country in the 13th century. The same traveler also said that Emperor Kubla Khan issued notes printed on mulberry paper as early as A. D. 1272.

Nixon, Rockefeller

By James Marlow

Neither Is In A Position To Tee Off

WASHINGTON
Cut through the smiles, handshakes and careful speeches and New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller seems to be saying of his rival, Vice President Richard M. Nixon:

"He could do it well but I could do it better."

In short, so far Rockefeller has been making a personality contest of his search for the Republican presidential nomination. He may have to keep on doing it or else try the high-minded approach.

For him the in-between tactic—political slam-bang—seems out.

The odds against him—unless there is a change in events at home and abroad—are more than just the vice president's head-start toward the nomination.

It's no wonder that Nixon, an ambitious young man with two terms as vice president, has lined up so many Republican pros on his side. He has worked hard for them, for the party, for himself, and in his job.

Nixon, of necessity, almost has to be tongue-tied in these next few months as he tries to sew up the nomination.

Since he has been closely identified with the Eisenhower programs, policies, and performances he can't do much more than promise a continuation of them.

That seems to make good political sense right now when the country is highly prosperous and the world looks a little nearer peace than it has in years.

Nixon faces one big handicap. He'll be in the role of defender. He is hardest hitting when he can be aggressive—as he was against the Truman administration—and not on the defensive.

But if Nixon, an important figure in the administration, is inhibited from criticizing it or suggesting switches, the same limitation would seem to apply to Rockefeller.

As a faithful Republican, needing Republican support to get the nomination at next summer's convention, he can't afford to be very critical of the administration, if at all, without splitting the party.

If he wants to appeal to the independent vote, Rockefeller may even feel restrained about criticizing Democrats since he has to hope for every vote he can grab off.

Nor is Rockefeller in a good position to tee off on Nixon. Rockefeller's tearing him down, to get the nomination, would be a wrecking job made to order for the Democrats if Nixon later was the one nominated.

But if Rockefeller can't bang the Eisenhower administration, avoids knocking Democrats, and lays off Nixon, what claim can he have on the Republican nomination?

Through personality alone he might try to convince the Republican pros to pick him if they think Nixon couldn't win against a Democrat.

Or, he could offer new and constructive ideas to set him apart a bit from Eisenhower and Nixon but not so far that he will lose his Republican identity. That would be the high-minded, non-critical approach.

That might attract the independents, boost his standing in the polls, influence the pros. He's in a tough and delicate spot, although he has a big staff to help him get off it.

So Who Cares?

By Truman Twill

To my mind the most fascinating quirk of human thought is the brain's inability to borrow trouble from the future.

This is the despair of the exceptional persons who prove the rule that tomorrow we may die, it says here in the warning, so what? At the moment, it is driving the population-increase worriers' nuts.

Unlike the nuclear experts who tell us we are going to be consumed from the inside out by radioactive poisons, the population-bomb experts are tangling with an even more difficult proposition—that we are going to consume the environment that supports us by multiplying until there is no room to raise food.

Only about 10 per cent of the earth's surface will raise food; that's the catch. Anyone who knows what "urban sprawl" is can see the insignificant 10 per cent being gobbled up by real estate developments.

If the earth's population keeps doubling and redoubling, there won't be any arable place left to produce food. But to point this out and to point out how grim life on the earth would be if living space were whittled down to a square yard per person (something like the space a chicken commands in a poultry house) is to elicit either a loud guffaw or an indifferent silence.

Some people can see nothing but the absurdity of the eventuality, while others simply refuse to think about the eventuality at all. This is the problem of the demographers, which is the up-to-date name for population experts.

As they think of it, man has reached a point in his evolution from unthinkingness to thinkingness that should make him want to peer ahead into his future on earth. But as the mass of men think of it—or feel about it—they are concerned only with the present; that is, with their own lives. What may happen to men who will follow is not their concern.

They will have to take their chances. That is the way it always has been. Cut down the forests and let future generations figure out where the wood is coming from. Plow up the ground and let the next generation survive out of the floods from the quick runoff.

Kill all the game and trust that someone else will think of something to take its place. Pile up ant-hills in the cities and let the future worry about the social deterioration of the ants.

Start junk piles here, there and everywhere and let the suckers of tomorrow worry about living next to a junk yard. Stick your finger in the eye of the individuals and the ideas you hate and it's no skin off your nose if their kids try to get even with your kids for good and sufficient provocation.

This is the way the human mind works, and with due respect to the planners this is the insoluble problem they're up against. Their problem is not whether one plan is better than another plan. That could be settled by reason and rationality.

It is, rather, the problem of making people think beyond their own life span. It is whether to listen to planners or chuck them out and do what comes naturally, figuring that in the end what was good enough for grandpa will be good enough for his great-great-grandson, provided he has one.

There is no more fascinating quirk of human thought than this. There are 100,000 more people in the world every day. If it has taken you five minutes to read this, 350 more mouths to feed have been added to a population already close to three billion. There will be twice that many in another 50 years. If the present rate of increase holds. So who cares?

Is There Life On Mars?

By Thomas R. Henry

WASHINGTON
A noted astronomer has found new evidence of life on Mars—the presence in its dark regions of organic molecules such as are characteristic of plants on earth.

The astronomer, Dr. William M. Sinton of Lowell Observatory, Flagstaff, Ariz., has reported his findings to the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He says that "invisible" infrared light reflected from the planet through 140,000,000 miles of space contains wave lengths such as would come only from vegetation such as is found on earth.

He does not rule out the possibility, however, that the reflection comes from inorganic materials unknown to science.

The infrared wave lengths, according to Dr. Sinton, are most prominent in reflections from those areas of the planet's surface whose color changes with the seasons. These wave lengths are virtually absent from the constantly bright regions of Mars.

The dark Martian regions, he reports, include one area of approximately 500,000 square miles. This area, he says, has become dark quite recently, perhaps by the invasion of plant life into a previously desert region.

"It is tempting to assume," says the report, "that the dark regions which have appeared during the history of planetary observing also contain organic molecules. If this is true, then organic molecules are produced in localized regions in relatively short spans of time. Growth of vegetation certainly seems to be the most logical explanation for the appearance of organic molecules."

However, says Dr. Sinton, other characteristics of the spectrum indicate that there may be a significant difference between earth—especially a greater ability of Martian life to store up carbohydrates for food in the much more hostile climate of the neighboring planet.

Although proverbially the bagpipe is considered a Scottish musical instrument, it was introduced into Scotland by the Norsemen. The instrument is of very ancient origin, as representations of it are to be found in Grecian and Roman sculptures.

Rival High Schools Unite To Aid Boy Hurt In Wreck

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — It started as simply as this: Let's do something for Ron.

It mushroomed until boys and girls in two high schools hope to raise several thousand dollars for Ron Arrillaga.

Ron, 17, suffered a Roy Campanella type spinal injury in an automobile accident Nov. 10. Doctors doubt he ever will regain use of the lower portion of his body.

Right now he's in traction in University of California Hospital, San Francisco. He's in considerable pain, but his morale is high. He cannot have visitors; only his family.

To help him, Ron's Hillsdale High classmates started with a dollars for Ron day Friday. They gave $1,200.

Students at Capuchino High—which has a close friendship but bitter athletic rivalry with Hillsdale—joined in. They scheduled two Arrillaga days this week.

Cap had a football queen ball Friday. Some of the boys worked all Thursday night to construct a wishing well. The dancers threw in coins for Ron.

The Hillsdale at Capuchino football game Thanksgiving Day is dedicated to Ron. Hillsdale is giving Ron half its receipts—an estimated $1,000.

Ron's mother estimates his hospitalization and treatment will cost perhaps $100,000, most of it not covered by insurance.

Roy Campanella, former Brooklyn Dodger catcher who suffered an injury similar to Ron's a few years ago, has fought doggedly to partially regain use of his limbs. Informed by The Associated Press of Ron's condition, he sent this word:

"Keep your chin up, Ron. Have lots of faith and The Good Lord will help you."

Ron has kept his chin up.

Instructors From 8 Counties Attend Driver Class Session

Instructors from eight counties at a regional meeting of West Virginia Driver Education Association Thursday in Weirton heard talks on highway safety and teaching methods.

Hancock County high schools were represented by instructors from Chester, Newell, New Cumberland and Weirton.

Speakers included Marvin D. Mills, president of the state association; Roy W. Walter, state director of transportation and driver education; Chester Grossi of Weir High, past association president, and Lt. T. A. Welty of the Department of Public Safety, representing the state police.

Miss emphasized the importance of youth participating in driver education programs and pointed out that safety measures should also be taught in the home, community and schools.

Walter reviewed the state driver education program and reported that 118 schools now have such training in the curriculum.

Grossi reported on the 1959 American Driver and Safety Education Association meeting held at Michigan State University. The Cars driven by Samuel Gray, 16, of Fombell, Pa., R. D. 1, and Roy Vinzant, 30, of Louisville, Ky., collided on Route 14 about a mile west of the Pennsylvania state line Saturday night at 8.

Vinzant attempted to pass Gray as the latter made a left turn. Damage was minor officers said.

2 Minor Accidents Listed By City Police

Only two minor accidents were reported to city police over the weekend.

Jack Menough, 715 W. 9th St., told police the left side of his parked 1953 sedan was damaged when struck by a hit-skip motorist Saturday at 6:30 p. m. A neighbor saw a car bearing a license issued in East Liverpool sideswipe the Menough car, he told police.

A collision at 7:50 a. m. today at Smith St. and Dresden Ave. involved a Stopped car driven by Donald L. Swoger, 43, of 740 Avondale St., and a car owned by Jeannette Walters, 623 3rd St., Chester, police said.

Ambridge Driver Dies After Crash On Bridge

An Ambridge motorist died Sunday at 10:25 a. m. at Beaver Falls Providence Hospital of a fractured skull received when his 1956 sedan rammed a utility pole on the New Brighton-Beaver Falls Bridge.

Raymond Metelsky, 32, of Ambridge, died about 5 1/2 hours after the accident at 4:55 a. m. Dr. Thomas Todd, Beaver Falls coroner, said. The accident occurred on a straight stretch after a right curve on the Beaver Falls side of the bridge, he said.

Miss Jessie Stanczak, 34, of Beaver Falls, a passenger, is listed in "critical" condition, but slightly improved today at Providence. She suffered a laceration of the upper lip, a fractured jaw, fractures of both legs and shock.

Mr. Metelsky's car was demolished, Todd said. His death marked the 25th traffic fatality of the year for the county as compared to 24 at this time last year.

School Counselor Hurt In Hancock Car Mishap

A Hancock County school official was one of four persons injured in a two-car head-on collision Saturday night about 7 on a sharp curve on State Route 2 south of New Cumberland.

Mrs. Virginia Stanley, 23, director of testing, guidance and counseling of the Hancock County school system, suffered severe lacerations of the face when the car driven by her husband, Jack, smashed head-on with another car driven by a New Cumberland man.

Sheriff's deputies said the Stanley auto was heading south when it was rammed by a north-bound car driven by Kenneth Leroy Bailey, 23, of Chestnut St., who was driving on the wrong side of the highway.

The Stanley couple was injured, along with Bailey and a passenger in his car, Harry Craig of New Cumberland.

Mrs. Stanley, employed by the Board of Education in early September, is in "satisfactory" condition today at the Weirton General Hospital with multiple lacerations of the face, abrasions of the head and a possible wrist injury. Deputies reported that some 73 sutures were required to close her face wounds.

Her husband was treated for a laceration of the scalp and was released, although complaining of rib pains, the hospital said.

Craig is in "good" condition with a possible fractured jaw. Bailey is in "good" condition at the hospital with lacerations of the face.

Deputies said that Bailey was cited for driving while intoxicated and reckless driving and posted bond Sunday night for a hearing this week before Squire John D. Herron.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, who came to Hancock County from Oklahoma, reside in a furnished home on Sedgewick St. in New Cumberland.

Shadyside Youth Waits Hearing In Drunk Case

A 17-year-old Shadyside youth was to appear before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon today on an intoxication charge after fleeing from his father's car and attempting to run away from police.

Police said the boy's father called and reported he was intoxicated but said he was unable to handle the youth and was bringing him to the police station.

However, the youth jumped out of the car at W. 6th and Jackson Sts. and fled in the direction of Chester. Police sent a cruiser to the Chester Bridge and the officer said the youth attempted to run after being told to get in the cruiser.

He was held in the detention room at city jail until this morning, when he was released in custody of his father for an appearance before Judge Tobin.

that was all right with me, but no one ever came."

Added Mrs. Walsh Sunday night: "Then when I found out they were going to fire that girl, I decided to hang onto it."

"I will not give it up until the bank rehires her. Maybe I'm stubborn, but I feel everyone makes mistakes, even bank presidents."

George V. Wallace, president of the bank, had no comment.

Mrs. Walsh said she gave the check to her husband when he left for a round trip flight between Westover Air Force Base, Mass., and Goose Bay, Labrador—which may set a new altitude record for a kited check.

Sgt. Walsh, his wife said, is due home "in a day or two." The matter will rest, she added, until his return.

Miss Halliwell confirmed she had been fired.

She told a newsman "I don't think I should have been fired. I've been employed by the bank for five years and I don't think the discrepancy was my fault. Anything could have knocked the check writer off—a small bump or someone's elbow brushing mine. It was an honest error that could have happened to anyone."

Fund Figures Are Given To West Virginia Board

CHARLESTON (AP) — The Board of Public Works was handed today a proposed general revenue operating budget totaling $111,699,976 for state government agencies in the fiscal year to begin next July 1.

The recommendation from Finance Commissioner Henry L. Ash, as the board began three days of budget request hearings, compared with this fiscal year's general revenue appropriations of $114,336,633 — but the decrease needed qualification.

Ash informally told newsmen his budget proposal, which the board eventually will tailor into a document to be presented to the Legislature next January, might contain more actual operating money than this year's appropriations.

It had no suggested appropriation, which ran $2,762,812 for fiscal 1959-60, for the property appraisal program; nor the $1,400,000 each of the last two Legislatures has provided for the State Medical Center at Morgantown.

Specific revenue measures the 1958 session enacted for those two purposes expire as of next June 30. While the Legislature may breathe new life into them, or enact others, Ash couldn't count on such revenues in his budget proposals.

The 1958 session wiped out for two years a 5-per cent exemption in the gross sales tax law to set in motion a program calling for statewide reappraisal of non-utility property as a means of raising more school and other local money.

It raised from 2 to 3 per cent, also for two years, the state's insurance premium tax to supplement funds for construction of the medical center's teaching hospital.

Ash recommended regular operating budgets totaling $111,566,696 for the next fiscal year, but to that amount must be added $133,280 which also must come from general revenue to administer the state cigarette tax law.

Based on estimated general fund receipts of $111,725,000 for next year, Ash's operating budget recommendations would leave a balance of $25,024 as of June 30, 1961.

That, plus an unencumbered general fund balance expected to amount to $1,863,684 at this fiscal year's end, would leave an unencumbered surplus of $1,908,708 at the end of the 12 months beginning next July 1.

Ash, however, has recommended four appropriations totaling $1,808,250 for capital improvements from that anticipated surplus to cut the final unencumbered balance at the end of June, 1961, to $100,458.

The finance commissioner had to trim operating budget requests totaling $129,537,462 to get his 1960-61 recommendations within the limits of revenue estimates. Capital expenditure requests ran $27,394,077 in all.

Recommended appropriations from surplus included $448,250 for a new classroom building at the West Virginia Schools for the Deaf and Blind at Romney; and $450,000 for a crib ward dormitory building at the West Training School for mentally retarded children at St. Marys.

An outlay of $500,000 was proposed for a sheltered workshop for the blind at the vocational rehabilitation center at Institute, near Charleston, and $310,000 for major repairs to Glenville State College's administration building.

The larger increases in Ash's operating budget proposals were $501,968 for certain pension and

New War Books At Library Include 'Battle Of The Bulge'

Though Gen. Sherman is famous for his declaration that "War is hell," military struggles often inspire great literature, such as the Gettysburg Address and also great heroes, Miss Frances Jones commented.

Recently an avalanche of books on World War II has reached the presses. The 15 years since the conflict provide the perspective for better research and a higher quality of writing, the Carnegie Public Library librarian said.

One of the most dramatic and controversial battles is recounted by John Toland in "Battle," the story of "The Bulge." It was unorthodox since there were no definite lines of battle. The author used painstaking research by interviewing participants on both sides. He claims that American cockiness and independence won out. But many a GI who was there will discover in this book what really happened for the first time.

The story of the Battle of the Atlantic is told from the point of view of the other side in Adm. Dönitz' "Memoirs." It is his account of the 10 years and 20 days he served as "Mr. Submarine."

"Victory at Sea" is a book version of the TV show of the same name edited by the producer of the show, Henry Salomon. Germany's submarines wreaked havoc before the Allies got the upper hand. This volume, however, is a tribute to the American Navy.

The terrifying world of espionage is always grist for a good suspense story: "The Secret World," by Peter Derabin, is the report of a high Soviet officer whose conscience finally rebelled; the former head of U.S. Navy intelligence, Ladislav Farago, describes the battle among nations for vital information in "War of Wits," and Leonard Mosely, famous British news correspondent, tells a true spy story set in wartime Cairo in "The Cat and the Mice."

The military side of World War I, its battles, tactics and efforts are the subject of "The Great War 1914-1918." The author Cyril Falls, a native Irishman who has been for many years a correspondent of the London Times.

Rolling history back to the Civil War, writers and their audience find a source of inspiration. Allan Nevins in his fifth volume concerns himself with the first year of the war: "The War for the Union: The Improvised War," 1861-1862. Frank Slaughter tries his hand at a sort of "Gone With the Wind" in "Lorena." This is a woman who managed a successful plantation in Georgia on the route of Sherman's march. In addition to a good romantic interest provided by the plot there are some interesting sidelights on early Klux Klan activities.

Our nation's first great military experience was the American Revolution. John Brick writes a novel

An additional $45,780 recommended for the Medium Security Prison at Huttonsville would go largely for guards for prison labor used at various state institutions, and those institutional budgets would be cut somewhat accordingly.

Also recommended was $60,960 more for the Denmar Chronic Disease Hospital.

The State Industrial and Publicity Commission would receive $74,760 more for salaries, equipment and particularly for such current expenses as outlays for state advertising.

Ash's own department asked for $120,276 more, including $41,337 as a three-year premium on fire and extended coverage insurance for the Capitol and an eight-story state office building on which there are now no such policies.

Only minor changes were proposed in state mental institution budgets, and they for the most part reflected a transfer to the Medium Security Prison account of money for guards for prisoners assigned to work details.

A $40,000 reduction in equipment and repairs and alterations accounts at the West Virginia Training School was in line with amounts requested by the Mental Health Department after the completion of projects and purchases for which money was provided this year.

The budget's judicial account, which neither the Board of Public Works nor the Legislature can reduce, was increased $90,200 because of an increase by one, to 28, in state judicial circuits and higher amounts for criminal charges.

The governor's contingent fund would be boosted by $50,000, to $150,000, under Ash's recommendations, and he also proposed a $150,000 increase, to $250,000, in the appropriation for the state's Economic Development Agency.

— (Author's Name Below) —

Your own body is a wonderful manufacturer of medicines for the cure of disease. As soon as any invading germ or virus attacks you, your blood rushes its weapons of defense to the danger zone.

If your health and strength are good you win the fight and the attack is defeated. But, if your resistance is low, any disease can gain a dangerous foothold. Therefore it is wise to visit your physician for regular check-ups to make certain you have enough energy to fight off sickness. He can prescribe the proper needed medication.

Get A Head Start On The Holidays

VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Why not start "Operation Santa Claus" now and enjoy the festivities that Yuletide brings to the home?

It's the last-minute cramming that wears out the homemaker and the million little jobs that could have been done long before that leave her ragged.

It's not too early to put your house in order right now, taking it in easy strides, and getting everything ready so you can enjoy the shopping, gift wrapping, tagging and all the parties that go with the holidays.

Who's for cleaning curtains, draperies? Do the job now. If you're a stickler for freshness, hang the washes or drycleaned window hangings on a hanger in the closet until time to use them.

Wash the windows and sills while you are about it. These can always get last-minute touchups, but the main cleaning job will be done.

IF IT'S GLASS WE HAVE IT! WINLAND

Plate and Window Glass Company
Cor. Walnut & Minerva
FU 5-3228

ARE YOU planning to use all the silver you own during the holiday festivities? If so, get every last silver ash tray or vegetable dish polished. Wrap each piece in polyethelene film tightly, put away until the big day. Awkward pieces could be sealed by tape.

How about that good china that is used only for those special events? Wash it all in soapy water. If you don't do this job now, you may try to get by without using that very special tureen that will put the finishing touch on the holiday table.

If the closet where these dishes are stored is used often, wrap all the washed china in dish towels and put back in place.

What about that cut glass that is getting increasingly popular for table setting? It's just as glamorous as it was in grandma's day, and many pieces are almost indispensable to a festive dining table. The old celery, pickle, and olive dishes are just right for today's service, and there are few modern pieces that can equal them in design and usefulness. Compote, footed pie dishes and cake plates are other useful pieces that are easy to blend with today's china. And don't forget about your stem-ware for the table. Shine it up, protect it from dust, and have it ready.

THIS IS A good time to stock up on candles, to locate the tree stand, to take an inventory of the Christmas ornaments. It's a fine time also to locate a spot for those gifts you purchase early so that the family will not be tempted to peek.

Where will the Christmas tree stand?

Why not bend some heavy wire coat hangers into large circles and prepare them for wreaths? You can decorate your own wreaths for doors and windows, and individualize them with a variety of unusual ornaments, a feat that isn't easy when Christmas is closing in on you.

A wreath of pine boughs with a della robbia effect supplied with tiny crab apples, kumquats, lemons, holly and doo-dads that are available in variety stores is a charming departure from the usual wreath.

Agreement Ends Walkouts That Hit Grocery Chains

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Grocery shoppers in central, eastern and southern Ohio will be greeted with full shelves of produce when they do their Thanksgiving marketing this week—a strike that has tied up deliveries to three major grocery chains is over.

Teamsters Local 413 ratified a new contract Sunday and ended a week-long walkout at terminals and warehouses of Kroger, A & P and Albers. No details of the new agreement were disclosed.

The old contract expired last October.

The strike, which began Nov. 15, stopped deliveries to retail stores, but most markets were able to keep shelves stocked from a backlog of supplies and deliveries by independent dealers.

Kroger operations affected by the strike reached as far north as Mansfield, as far south as Portsmouth and as far east as Wheeling, W. Va. Albers and A & P operations affected were generally in the central and southern sections of the state, but some A & P operations in northern Kentucky also were affected.

Minister Transferred

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Rev. Bernard T. Lomas, 35, pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church in Portsmouth since 1954, has been named to the pulpit of the 1,800-member Epworth-Euclid Methodist Church here. Named by Bishop Hazen G. Werner, Ohio area prelate, the Portsmouth pastor succeeds Dr. Oscar T. Glen, who retired last June after 25 years.

Ohio Catholic Bishops Are Named To Posts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Ohio Catholic bishops have been named assistants to the administrative board of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The appointments, included in 11 assistants selected, were Bishop Emmet M. Walsh of Youngstown and Bishop Clarence G. Isenmann of Columbus.

Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati is chairman of the board.

Rites Set Tuesday

Brunette to Blonde in Three Easy Steps!

Now any homeowner, like the one shown in the photo above, can change an old dark wood surface to a popular blonde or light wood finish without scraping or removing the old finish. A new wood finish especially designed for the older painted or stained furniture gives you a stained effect that is tough and chip-proof without spending time or patience stripping away the old surface, sanding and restaining.

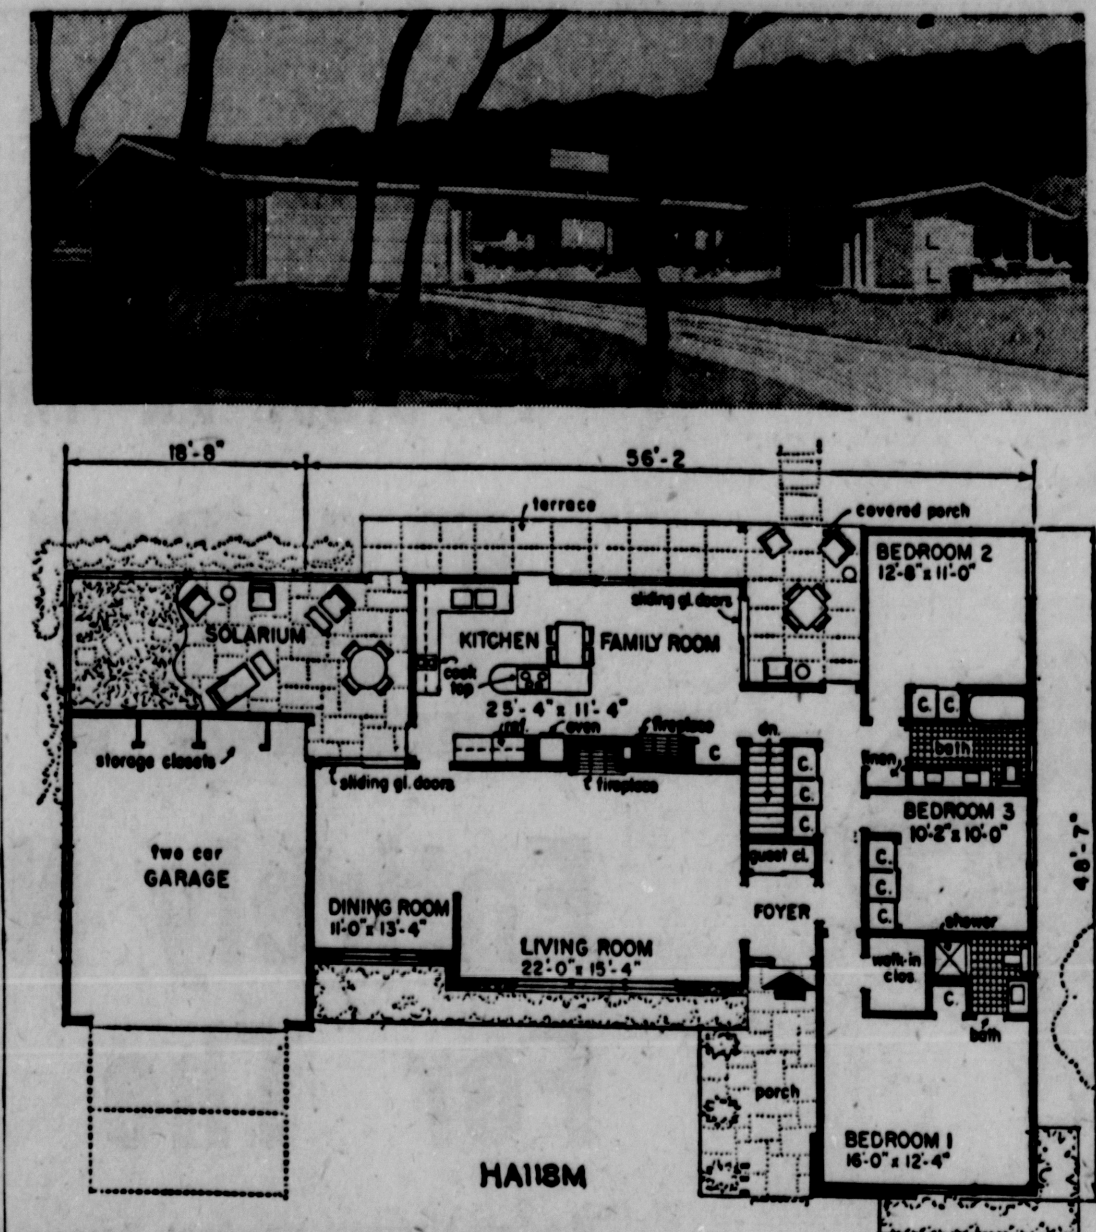

It's as simple as one, two, three! The homeowner at the right is completing the first step—a base coat in the same color as the desired finish. Next a coat of color grain is applied and then the stained effects are created with a dry brush as shown in the inset. Finally, an application of a clear finish results in a final product like the end table at the left, which was previously the same color as the chair.

This means that the old table handed down from Aunt Sue or the fine old chair in the attic, garage, or basement can take its place with newer home furnishings. With a minimum of effort and three simple, foolproof steps, anyone can make the transformation from old-fashion to modern.

Second Well Can Save Day

CHICAGO — They say Ben Franklin first said, "You never miss the water 'til the well runs dry."

Even with its wide application, the meaning is specific to those who depend on their water supply from a single water well.

Farmers, particularly, depend on their wells for hundreds of uses, including modern home conveniences, stock watering, irrigation and fire-fighting. Water supply is so important that their whole livelihood depends on it.

That's why many farmers and even some non-farm rural residents have had two wells drilled on their property—to assure they'll never be without water.

Water use tends to increase year after year, the National Water Well Association says. Many farmers know their single well is barely able to supply all the water they need now. Some know their supply is already inadequate, that it's actually preventing them from farming as well as they should.

Having an auxiliary well eliminates the shortage and assures that if anything happens to one well or the equipment that brings water from it there will be no emergency.

The well-drilling contractor or the water systems expert who installs the pumping equipment can set up an automatic sequence changer to alternate the cycle operation of the two pumps so each takes its share of the work.

It will put both pumps to work if the demand is great—as in fire-fighting—and it automatically will shift the work load to the other pump if one becomes incapacitated.

Those who operate schools and hospitals, restaurants or small industrial businesses beyond city water mains would do well to consider having a second well. At least, the NWWA advises, it's a good idea to check existing water facilities now and be ready for increasing water demands in the future.

Galvanized Steel Can Be Painted Despite Coating

NEW YORK (AP)—Galvanized steel can be painted successfully if certain precautions are taken.

How to achieve satisfactory results is described in a new booklet, "Painting Galvanized Steel," put out by the American Iron and Steel and American Zinc institutes.

There are several good reasons for painting the zinc-coated steel: to extend the period of protection given by the zinc coating, to improve its appearance and to reflect heat after age has dulled the reflecting quality of the steel.

The booklet gives these suggestions:

1. If possible, wait six months to permit weathering.
2. Brush the surface with a wire brush. Remove any grease or oil films with mineral spirits or detergent and water.
3. Apply a coat of metallic zinc paint or other primer especially designed for galvanized steel.
4. After the primer coat is thoroughly dry, apply a coat of good exterior white paint that is recommended by the primer manufacturer. Some paints are not compatible with certain primers.

If you wish to cool the interior of a galvanized steel building, paint the roof and siding white.

Air Guardsmen Strike At Mythical Enemies

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Air National Guardsmen from Columbus, Springfield and Mansfield spent their weekend blasting a mythical enemy which was threatening Ohio from the west.

And after 50 sorties by squadrons based in the three cities, Col. Dale E. Shafer Jr., 121st Tactical Fighter Wing Commander, announced that the training problem was a success.

The airmen in F84F Thunderstreaks made their bombing runs on the Camp Atterbury Bomb range south of Indianapolis. Their bombs carried only a small charge but on paper were nuclear weapons.

Steel Figures Near 85 Pct.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Steel production last week jumped 33.4 points to 79 per cent of rate capacity, Steel magazine reported today. The output was estimated at 2,237,000 ingot tons.

The magazine said steel operations probably will hit 85 per cent of capacity this week and may reach 90 per cent by early next month.

In spite of the rapid recovery of the steel industry since striking workers returned to their jobs under court order, operations in metalworking plants are lagging, the magazine said.

"There have been cutbacks since the strike was started and more are sure to come," it added. "Converters and fabricators are getting only material that was in process when the strike started and in most cases it's too little to permit resumption of full operations and too late to prevent further cutbacks."

A survey conducted by the magazine shows that 39 per cent of the more than 100 steel users contacted expect shortages for at least six months even if the United Steelworkers Union and the steel manufacturers reach a settlement before the Taft-Hartley injunction expires.

The publication said steel inventories are at a postwar low and users will have to add more than 10 million tons just to get up to normal.

But most steelmakers are refusing to open their order books for next year until they've substantially reduced their backlogs, it added.

Steel's price composite on heavy melting steel scrap slipped 50 cents to $44.83 a gross ton last week. Failure of the mills to enter the market as expected, despite booming steelmaking operations, was given as the reason. The composite stock at $40.67 a year ago.

Rarick Seeks Strike Funds

MCKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — Donald C. Rarick, who in the past has found fault with United Steelworkers' leadership, said today the AFL-CIO should get up a fund to assist steelworkers if they strike again.

Rarick gained prominence in 1957 when he unsuccessfully opposed USW President David J. McDonald's bid for re-election. He also headed a dues protest committee that fought against an increase in the USW membership dues.

Rarick, now president of the USW local at U.S. Steel Corp.'s Irwin Works in McKeesport, said he plans to write to George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO and recommend that a strike fund be formed immediately.

"McDonald has my full support in the USW effort to win a new labor contract with the steel industry," Rarick said, referring to a 116-day strike that was halted Nov. 7 by a Taft-Hartley injunction. He added:

"As conditions now stand there seems no other course but to renew the strike when the injunction expires Jan. 26. But the AFL-CIO should bear some of the burden and aid the steelworkers if the strike is renewed."

Rarick said he plans to ask Meany to make plans for establishment of a strike fund which would guarantee steelworkers some weekly income if the strike is renewed. He said:

"I think each international union should contribute a lump sum to the fund and then assess members a certain amount each month."

"Even the steelworkers who are back on the job while the injunction is in effect should contribute to the fund," Rarick said.

Rarick said the steelworkers are engaged in a fight with the steel industry that is sure to have some effect on the entire labor movement and "all of labor should lend a hand."

Steelworkers who joined in the fight against a dues increase in 1956 have put those differences with the international officers aside, Rarick said, and are solidly in back of the officers in the contract struggle.

Rarick said his letter to Meany will be written as a steelworker and not as a leader of the protest committee. He said he feels that McDonald has much to do and cannot think of everything.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced the effective date late Saturday. The rate increases, averaging 17.1 per cent and totaling about 88 million dollars a year, were approved Friday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY MEYERS

Talking To Infant Helps Him Talk

No one needs to tell the mother of a baby to have tender feelings toward him or to express these feelings in gentle, loving ways.

Long before his eyes begin to meet hers, she smiles at him and talks to him, eagerly watching for his first smile and other happy responses. She may sing lullabies and say "By Garry Meyers" lines of nursery rhymes to him, even keeping time with her arms, feet or entire body. Hear her say, "Rub-a-dub-dub," as she dries him following a bath. Although she may do all this without a purpose, it's very useful in preparing him to talk.

IF SHE realized how much she could do for the next several months to prepare him to talk, she would often talk to him about what she is doing for him: "Now we put this arm in here, this arm in here," as she puts on his shirt. "Now we put the stocking on this foot. And this stocking on this foot. Now we put on this shoe," and so forth.

She would also talk to him about what she is doing when she feeds him, or helps him to have fun with toys. Often she would keep talking, saying over and over, some of the same simple words. She would talk softly and tenderly, never loud or high-pitched. Her quiet tones make him feel com-

Garner Observes His 91st Birthday

UVALDE, Tex. (AP) — Former Vice President John Nance Garner—the once crusty but now mellow Cactus Jack—marked his 91st birthday here Sunday with a huge cake and a quiet party given by old friends.

There was one solemn moment at the informal party during which Garner waxed sentimental or humorous as he swapped jokes and political yarn-spinning with his neighbors.

It came when his son, Tully Garner, formally presented him with a portrait of the late Mrs. Garner, who was the former vice-president's chief administrative aid and advisor in his long political life. The portrait was painted by Garner's only grandchild, Mrs. John Currie.

Obviously moved, Garner said "I know you men have wonderful wives but not one of you has a wife as good as mine was." Garner, who retired from politics in 1940 after a historic break with Franklin D. Roosevelt over the third term and the Supreme Court issues, said only that he wants to live to be 92 so that he can square off his years of public and private life. Garner spent 46 years in public service.

fortable, as do her arms about him and his closeness to her.

WHEN DAD or other persons are in the baby's presence, she also talks quietly to them. These persons tend to imitate her quiet ways. And as Dad cares for the baby he also talks much to him.

When the baby begins to look at pictures in a magazine or book, Mother or Dad would talk to him about them and answer the questions he may ask by pointing or grunting. As his interest grows in looking at pictures and hearing about them, his mother or father may say something from the printed words about these pictures—begin to read to him. This may begin soon after he is a year or fifteen months of age.

Perhaps nothing else will do so much to further this child's speech as reading to him daily for months and years.

WHEN IN his early months the baby coos and babbles, his parents look and listen with enjoyment. So do they when they guess he is saying words, which they say after him. Gradually he talks, and all the delight of his parents over his development and the love and affection from them that he feels help him to master speech.

The more the parent and baby respond to each other in pleasant emotional ways, the more they enjoy each other up to and during the time he is ready to talk, the more rapid, as a rule, will his speech develop.

My bulletins, "Why Read to Baby and Young Child" and "The Young Child's Speech," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Nov. 28 is the anniversary of Panama's independence from Spain. Reports from the provinces say hundreds are planning to parade to the capital that day. Feelings whipped up over the issue of sovereignty over the Canal Zone could get out of the control of either President Ernesto de La Guardia Jr., or the opposition Chief, Aquilino Boyd.

THE visit here of Livingston Merchant, U.S. deputy undersecretary of state, is one sign of the diplomatic activity on both sides to avert what many Panamanian leaders fear might be a worse outbreak than that of Nov. 3 when 82 persons were injured.

Asbestos - Cement Sheet Featured In New Home

By ANDY LANG
Newsfeatures

Manufacturers constantly are seeking new applications of products they already have on the market.

In order to demonstrate these new applications, especially in the building materials line, many of them have built model homes using the materials.

As a result, you probably have read about or seen model homes made almost entirely of aluminum or glass or plywood or some other material which previously played only a minor role in the construction of a house.

The latest model home to fall into this category is on display in Oklahoma City. Its principle ingredient is asbestos-cement, up to now used mainly as siding and roofing shingles.

ONE OF THE most surprising features of this home is the vaulted, arch-supported roof built of asbestos-cement sheets with a center core of foamed lightweight cement. The idea is that they give complete insulation as well as being weatherproof.

The exterior walls also are insulated panels made of asbestos-cement sheets laminated to each side of a foam plastic core center.

One of these sheets has a flat surface, while the other has a three-dimensional texture which creates a decorative effect for either exterior or interior wall surfaces.

Another example of the use of an existing product in a different way is the manner in which colored asbestos-cement sheets have been cut into tiles and used as flooring in the living room area, as kitchen counter surfaces and as bathroom walls.

Standard asbestos-cement corrugated sheets are used throughout the house as room dividers, as a canopy to screen to the entrance foyer and in landscaping for screens, trellises and fences.

THE JET AGE is responsible for a new material being used in home oil furnaces.

The material, a ceramic felt, originally was designed to insulate high-speed airplanes from the intense heat developed in jet engines.

It is produced by a special process which converts molten refractory substances (mostly alumina and silica) into a mass of ceramic fibers, each many times finer than a human hair.

Somewhere along the line, engineers discovered that this lightweight product had advantageous properties when installed in the fire box of a domestic oil furnace.

Manufactured in blanket form and in various thicknesses, the material is cut to fit, rolled up, pushed through a furnace door and patted against the walls of the fire box until a snug fit is achieved.

By serving as a new lining for the old walls, it is said to eliminate the need to replace cracked or worn-out fire bricks.

It is claimed to have several advantages over conventional fire bricks. At least two furnace manufacturers now are using it in new furnaces.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Our beloved grandfather passed away last year. He left six children and 22 grandchildren. We want to have an oil portrait of him painted from old photographs and present it to Grandma on her 70th birthday. In his youth, Grandfather had a nervous affliction which affected his eyes. One lid dropped noticeably. We have been having an argument with the artist and some of the relatives. The artist says the drooping eyelid should show on the portrait. Some of the children insist it should not.

What is your advice in this matter?—INDIANA FAMILY.

Dear Indiana Family: A portrait should look as much like the subject as possible. If you're not going to follow the photographs why not give Grandma a portrait of Paul McNutt—a very handsome man who was also from Indiana.

Abraham Lincoln had a similar hassle with his family. His wife wanted the artist to leave off the wart on his cheek when he sat for his official portrait. Lincoln insisted that it be included. It was.

Heed Doctor

Dear Ann: Our small son had several severe colds and sore throats last winter. This kept him out of school a great deal. He is now 8 years old.

Our family doctor recommended that we have his tonsils removed during Christmas vacation. My husband's sister says the doctor is an old-fashioned dodo who doesn't know anything about modern medicine. (He has been our faithful family physician for 30 years.)

She says in the big cities the doctors know better than to yank out tonsils every time a child sneezes.

My husband and I have had some bitter quarrels about this. He's inclined to pay a great deal of attention to his sister on all matters, which irritates me.

What is your opinion? Should we listen to the family doctor and have the boy's tonsils removed, or heed my sister-in-law's "modern" advice?—PERPLEXED PARENT.

Dear Perplexed: I'm no doctor. This is out of my field. It's true, however, there are fewer tonsillectomies performed today than 20 years ago. Doctors have discovered that tonsils can perform a useful function.

But unless your sister-in-law is a physician, your family doctor is eminently better qualified to advise you.

If you are having second thoughts, visit three doctors and accept the decision offered by two.

Men Tell All

Dear Ann: Your column which said "a gentleman never tells" made me laugh! Wake up to the facts of life if you're going to give advice, Lady.

I've held at least 10,000 male hands during my lifetime. I'm a manicurist in a barber shop. Let me tell you that man's favorite subject is the women who couldn't say no. They'll tell anyone who will listen—the manicurist, barber, porter—with absolutely no regard for who may be under the towels in the next chair.

This "gentleman who never tells" is a figment of your imagination, Ann. They ALL tell. So wise up the ladies not to do anything they wouldn't want repeated in the barber shop.

Deborah Kerr To Wed

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — British film actress Deborah Kerr said today she plans to marry American film writer Peter Viertel in Switzerland in July. Miss Kerr divorced British television producer Anthony Barley last July after 14 years of marriage. They have two daughters, 2 and 7, who live in England.

There are three kinds of lighting—forked, sheet and ball.

TO WORN OUT: See a doctor. You sound more than "tired." The sooner the better.

TO WORRIED MOTHER: Not true. The vast majority of airline stewardesses are young women of the highest caliber. If her heart is set on this career give her your blessings.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Group Will Tabulate Figures From Survey

Results will be tabulated in the next two days on a religious survey conducted Sunday afternoon in Wellsville and the outlying districts by the Wellsville Ministerial Association.

About 150 workers from the various churches participated. A tally is being made by the Rev. Arden Beck, pastor of the First Methodist Church. The Rev. James Allison of the Church of the Nazarene and the Rev. Joseph Varner Jr. of the Bethel Presbyterian Church are co-chairmen with Rev. Beck.

Several residents were not at home and the workers will have to return to complete the survey. The purpose of the survey is to determine the names and addresses of residents of the area and list the church they attend or might prefer to attend.

Veterans Urged To Tell VA Of New Addresses

Veterans who move and fail to notify the Veterans Administration are almost certainly going to have check troubles.

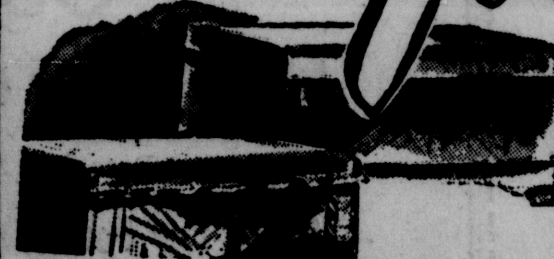

It's all the result of new regulations, explained R. L. Gillespie, acting manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Cleveland.

Since Nov. 20, the VA must terminate payments to any veteran once the treasury gets back two undeliverable checks.

Gillespie advised veterans who move to do two things—notify the post office so that checks can be forwarded and let the VA in on the change at once.

Gang Fight Rages In Game Between Baltimore Teams

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Police and city recreation officials today quizzed coaches and players involved in a sandlot football game which erupted into a gang fight between whites and Negroes.

The fight broke out Sunday near the end of a game between two teenage teams, one white and the other Negro. Six players on the all-white C.Y.O. team, their coach and the white referee were taken to hospitals, X-rayed, treated and released.

The white coach, Roland Butschky, said the fight started late in the game after his team tied the score with a touchdown. He said one of his players tried to run for the extra point, was stopped short of the goal line and then was attacked by four or five of the opposing players.

Spectators from the predominantly Negro crowd joined in and the melee was on, Butschky said.

Laos May Drop Charge Against North Viet Nam

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Laos is reported planning to withdraw her complaint to the U.N. against North Viet Nam in an effort to ease her relations with that Communist country and Red China.

Authoritative diplomatic sources said both India and U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld had urged the Laotian government to withdraw its charges that the North Vietnamese committed aggression by their aid to Communist Laotian rebels.

The informants said Laos could send Hammarskjöld a letter, within two weeks saying conditions no longer were as they were on Sept. 4, when Laotian Foreign Minister Khamphan Panya cabled Hammarskjöld that his country faced "flagrant aggression" from North Viet Nam.

This would enable the Security Council to strike the Laotian case from its standing agenda.

The council, acting on the Laotian complaint, sent a fact-finding subcommittee to Laos. The Ceremony Marks Start Of Religious Tolerance In U.S.

ST. MARY'S CITY, Md. (AP) — Protestants, Catholics and Jews joined hands Sunday around an historic monument commemorating the beginning of religious tolerance in America.

Representatives of the three major faiths extolled religious freedom and tolerance as a mark of the new era. St. Mary's City as a birthplace of these ideals.

The ceremony took place near the spot where Maryland's first settlers landed 325 years ago. These settlers were charged by the Catholic founder of the colony, Cecilius Calvert, Lord Baltimore, to practice their religious beliefs in peace and good will with respect for the conscience of others.

booted the extra point that gave the Steelers a 21-20 victory over Cleveland.

Now the Browns are a game behind the New York Giants, Eastern Conference leaders whom they meet Dec. 6 in New York, and tied at 6-3 with the Eagles, against whom they conclude the 1959 season in Philadelphia Dec. 13. Next Sunday San Francisco, co-holder of the Western Conference lead, plays here.

"With those three staring us in the face, we'll be doing it the hard way if we make it," Coach Paul Brown observed.

Brown unhesitatingly gave Layne a good share of the credit for putting the Browns in this tough predicament.

"Take him away from the Steelers, and they're nothing," Brown said. "He's the core of the whole team — a great quarterback, and that was quite a job he did out there."

The blond Texan, at 32 a veteran of 12 pro seasons, took a severe pounding from charging Cleveland linemen. Someone had stepped on his hand, and it was so swollen he had trouble gripping the ball.

Minneapolis-St. Paul Wooed By Two Loops

By JIM KLOBUCHAR MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A tempest over the pro football future of Minneapolis-St. Paul got the American Football League off on a bewildering start today in its struggle to go into action by 1960.

An 11th hour attempt to swing the Twin Cities into the National Football League failed, for the time being at least, to dislodge the Minneapolis-St. Paul entry from its membership in the new league.

Armed with a pledge by the cities' principal backers that they will stick with the AFL and field a team next year, league organizers went ahead with plans for a player draft begun Sunday night.

But the possibility that a National League team may be operating in the Twin Cities in 1960 hung uncertainly in the background. The situation was tangled by unanswered questions about stadium commitments, contract obligations and financial backing.

The American League sounded its challenge to the durable and successful NFL by drafting some of the most renowned names in college football in the opening round of its selections.

All undoubtedly will be drafted by the NFL also, raising the signal for an inevitable bidding fight to sign them to contracts.

The first player selected by the AFL was Southern Methodist's star quarterback Don Meredith, picked by Dallas.

Houston drew All-America halfback Billy Cannon of Louisiana State and Buffalo drafted quarterback Richie Lucas of Penn State. Quarterback George Izo of Notre Dame was picked off by the New York Titans in a coin flip with Los Angeles and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The Twin Cities hassle developed after Charles Johnson, executive sports editor of the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, disclosed that 10 of the National League's 12 clubs had agreed to accept a request by Minneapolis-St. Paul for membership in the NFL.

Track Record Set By Senator Frost

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Senator Frost, setting a new track record for the mile, handily defeated Charming Barbara here Saturday to cop the raceoff of the American Trotting Classic.

With Dick Buxton in the sulky, Senator Frost raced the mile in 1:57 3-5. The raceoff was made necessary when three earlier heats were split among Saturday's two contestants, and France's Jamin, Jamin was unable to stay at Hollywood Park for the raceoff because of prior commitments.

The victory earned Senator Frost $6,750 of a $10,000 purse. Charming Barbara picked up the rest.

The winning time smashed the mark of 1:58 set less than two weeks ago by Charming Barbara in winning the third leg of the trotting classic.

Senator Frost led by 1 1/4 to 3 lengths throughout the race and finished 1 1/4 lengths ahead.

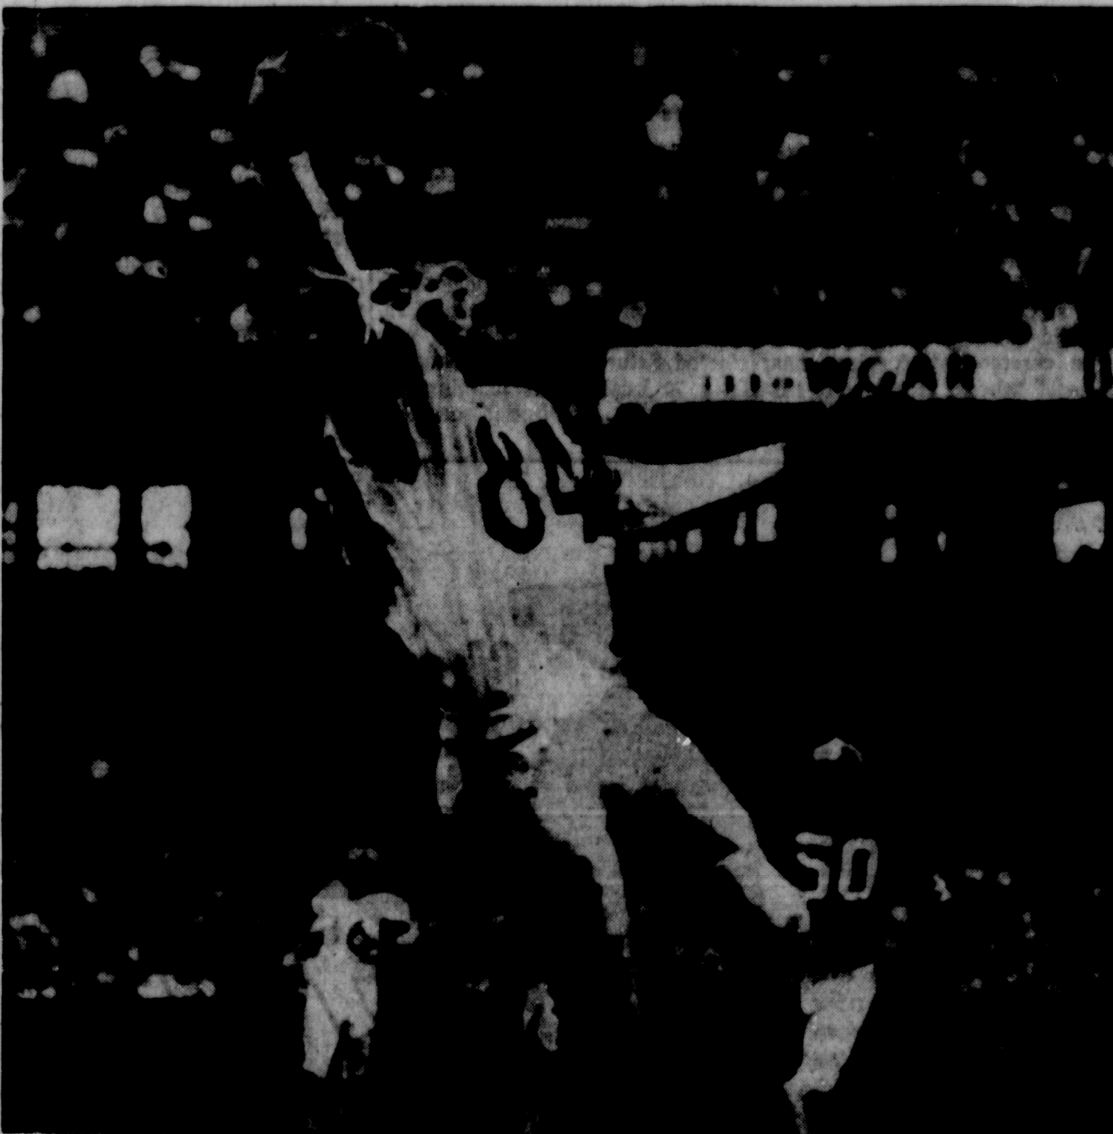

The winner is owned by Ray V. Foster and Wayne W. Galvin of Lima, Ohio. A crowd of 17,500 watched the duel.

Oklahoma State Star Wins Baseball Honors

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Oklahoma State's Dick Soergel was named "Rookie of the Year" today for non-pro baseball.

The National Baseball Congress said Soergel was picked from 500 players in the national non-pro tournament as the young player most likely to reach major league stardom. His pitching was a major factor in winning third place for the Cherokee Chiefs, Oklahoma champions.

Playing in four games, he pitched two wins and was unbeaten. In 18 innings on the mound he allowed one run and 13 hits. The 20-year-old right-hander, a 6-foot 3, 175-pounder, is from Oklahoma City.

STEELER END Gern Nagler was all over the field Sunday at Cleveland. He is shown here pulling down a pass for a 20-yard gain in the second quarter of the Browns-Steelers game. Bobby Layne tossed the ball to Nagler. This combination later clicked for the winning touchdown. (UPI Telephoto)

GERN NAGLER, Pittsburgh Steeler end, scored the winning touchdown for the Steelers with less than a minute left after taking a pass from Steeler quarterback Bobby Layne. Nagler is shown being tackled by Parrish (30) and Wren (42) but he was already in the end zone. Pittsburgh defeated Cleveland, 21-20. (UPI Telephoto)

Badgers Come From Behind To Wrap Up Big Ten Title

By JOE MOOSHIL Associated Press Sports Writer Wisconsin's long-awaited chance to avenge its Rose Bowl loss of six years ago has arrived.

The Badgers clinched their first undisputed Big Ten title in 47 years and the bowl bid by coming from behind Saturday to defeat Minnesota, 11-7.

While Wisconsin was struggling with the Gophers, Northwestern's hopes were obliterated at Illinois, 28-0. Purdue retained the Old Oaken Bucket with a 10-7 victory over Indiana and Michigan downed Ohio State, 23-14.

Outside the conference, Notre Dame edged Iowa, 20-19, and Michigan State lost to Miami of Florida, 18-13, Friday night.

Wisconsin, which became the first team to win the title with two conference losses, finished with a 5-2 league mark and 7-2 for the season.

Coach Milt Bruhn, following the Minnesota clincher, said the Gophers were "as good as any team we've played all season."

Bruhn admitted the entire sche-

Bernie 'The Toe' Allen Gives Purdue 10-7 Edge

Purdue University finished the season with a 5-2-2 record and East Liverpool's Bernie Allen was directly responsible for two of those victories.

After throwing three touchdown passes to defeat Wisconsin earlier in the season, Bernie kicked his first field goal of his college career as the Boilermakers edged Indiana, 10-7, Saturday at Bloomington.

Allen's boot traveled 32 yards to break a 7-7 tie as Purdue retained the "Old Oaken Bucket."

Allen had attempted five field goals earlier this season but had failed on each one.

Two passes thrown by Allen, one for 12 and the other for 15 yards, moved Purdue to the 32-yard line. On fourth down and four yards to go Allen booted the winning field goal.

Wisconsin, Washington Set To Meet In Rose Bowl Classic

Other Major Games Still Not Decided

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 1959 college football season, an unpredictable and confusing thing from the start, heads into its final stages with almost as many unanswered questions as a soap opera's last act.

Will Louisiana State and Penn State decide today to accept the bowl invitations that already have been proffered?

Can Syracuse, after an extra week of viewing with alarm, survive the really potent threat of UCLA and finish the season as the only unbeaten and untied major team?

So far, only one of the major bowl games is set with two teams. Three others have firm acceptances from one team and one, the Gator Bowl, has a conditional acceptance.

Washington earned the right to represent the West in the Rose Bowl by thumping Washington State 20-0 last Saturday. Wisconsin, surviving an 11-7 squeaker against Minnesota while Northwestern was taking a 28-0 thrashing from Illinois, became the first two-time loser ever to win the Big Ten title. The Badgers were selected Sunday, though not unanimously, as their conference's representative.

Syracuse had accepted a Cotton Bowl bid even before its ninth straight victory, a 46-0 breeze against Boston University. Syracuse is idle this week before meeting UCLA, which knocked Southern California from the unbeaten list 10-3.

Missouri earned a place in the Orange Bowl by beating Kansas 12-9 to take second place in the big eight behind Oklahoma, which won its 12th straight title. Texas Christian accepted a bid to play in the Dec. 19 Blue-Bonnet Bowl at Houston after whipping Rice 35-6.

Arkansas, discounting its chances for an undisputed Southwest Conference title and an automatic bid to play Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl, already has committed itself conditionally to the Gator Bowl Jan. 2.

Texas can tie Arkansas in the conference by beating Texas A&M Thursday and TCU can do it by whipping Southern Methodist Saturday. In the event of a tie, Texas has the bowl call.

Penn State, despite its surprising 22-7 loss to Pitt, still is first choice for the Dec. 19 Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia and Louisiana State is No. 1 on the list for the Sugar Bowl, which is contemplating a replay of the LSU-Mississippi game. LSU players are slated to vote on the matter this evening.

Georgia, the Southeastern Conference champion, and Clemson, Atlantic Coast Conference winner, Miami (Fla.), Alabama, South Carolina and perhaps some others are being considered to round out the bowl lineup.

Among the non-bowling conferences, Pennsylvania has to beat Cornell Thursday to take the Ivy League title from defending champion Dartmouth, which kept its chances alive with a last minute 12-7 decision over Princeton. Virginia Tech and Virginia Military are due to settle the Southern Conference race at Roanoke, Va., Thursday.

The Missouri Valley race, as close as the Southwestern, can wind up in a three-way tie among Tulsa, Houston and North Texas if Tulsa beats Wichita Thursday. Sun Bowl bound North Texas has ended its season while Houston winds up against Washington State.

Wyoming clinched the Skyline championship when Brigham Young upset Colorado State U. 14-13.

Last, but by no means least, come Army (4-3-1 so far this season) and Navy (4-4-1). They're not going anywhere except into the usual better struggle against each other. But they'll draw the usual 100,000 crowd at Philadelphia and probably the season's top television rating as well.

Students At Pitt Still Whoop It Up

PITTSBURGH (U)—Classes were dismissed this morning so students of the University of Pittsburgh could continue to celebrate Pitt's 22-7 upset victory over Penn State Saturday.

"They just outran us, tackled harder and blocked harder," is the way Penn State Coach Rip Engle sums up his team's loss. "Our kids were blocking real well out there and it was a helluva team victory," said Pitt Coach Johnny Michelosen. "The key play was Cox's 86-yard touchdown run in the third period."

The touchdown run by Fred Cox followed one by Ivan Tonic in the first quarter and another on a 35-yard dash by Bob Clemens in the second period. Pitt also tallied two points on a safety.

Dick Pae scored the Lions' only TD on a nine-yard run.

May Get Bowl Bid

Falcons Nip Ohio U., 13-9, To Win Mid-American Title

By HAL PARIS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Except for Thursday's traditional holiday clash between Miami and Cincinnati, the curtain is down on another Ohio football season.

The thrills and spills were plentiful during the 1959 campaign which, among other things, saw: Bowling Green emerge as a small college power with its first perfect season in history.

John Carroll also finish with an unsullied record.

Once-potent Ohio State humbled in a dismal fashion.

Buckeye boosters, who have reason to sing the blues, had to eat more crow Saturday when ancient rival Michigan tagged Ohio State with its fifth loss, 23-14.

The fired-up Wolverines thus saddled the Bucks with their worst record since 1947 when a team coached by Wes Fesler closed with a 2-6-1 mark and finished last in the Big Ten.

Hayes' squad wound up 3-5-1 and 2-4-1 in the conference, just escaping the league basement. It was easily Hayes' worst season in nine at the Buckeye helm.

The controversial coach set some sort of record when his post-game press conference Saturday lasted only 73 seconds. Hayes summed it up this way:

"Our kids played good football today. . . they didn't quit. They made it a great contest. But they just didn't have enough to win."

"That has been the story too many times this season."

On the brighter side, Bowling Green, with a possible bowl bid in the balance, rallied in the second half to overcome determined Ohio U., 13-9.

The Bobcats, closing with a nifty 7-2 record, needed a victory to tie the Falcons for the Mid-American Conference crown.

A second-string guard from Canton, Jerry Colaner, turned the tide for the BeeGees. Colaner picked off an errant Ohio pass and raced 50 yards for the winning touchdown.

The play came early in the fourth quarter and wiped out a 9-7 Ohio advantage. The fabulous Falcons, in coping their second MAC championship, also established a conference scoring mark with 207 points.

The BeeGees tallied 274 points and permitted only 83 in racing to nine consecutive triumphs.

In other Ohio finales, Kent State edged Louisville, 16-14, Dayton upset Wichita, 18-13, Central State thumped Bluefield (W. Va.) State, 36-6, and Baldwin-Wallace snapped Southern Connecticut State's unbeaten string at 15 with a 42-28 win.

For the year, Buckeye teams won 55, lost 47 and tied 4 in interstate competition, with a scoring advantage of 1,901 to 1,514.

ran for the extra point to deadlock the game at 7-7.

"I honestly don't know whether we could have made a comeback in the second half if we were behind," Gainer said.

Gainer singled out Kinser and right half John Williams for their performances.

He had high praise for Parkersburg back Mike Hayden and ends Mike Morrison and Jim Cunningham.

Tomorrow has been set aside here as "Merrill Gainer Day" for the 48-year-old coach who in his first season at Beaver guided the team to an 11-0 record.

Gainer, who came here from Big Creek, attributed the victory partially to fine scouting reports from his assistant John Chamara.

"John watched Parkersburg play Weirton and did a wonderful job of scouting them," Gainer said.

The Beaver mentor believes next year's team will be a pretty good one. "We should be fairly well off," he said. "But I don't think we'll compare with this team."

Returning veterans will include halfback Richard Bourne, guard Wayne Stirling and fullback Tom Krestring, along with letterman halfback Walter Belcher.

Gainer said that while Parkersburg was the toughest his team played this year, Big Creek gave his Beavers the roughest time of the season. Bluefield whipped Big Creek, 6-0.

"We fumbled within our own 15 twice against Big Creek," he declared.

As for the Parkersburg game, Gainer thought the turning point came in the final seconds of the first half when Bluefield was behind 7-0.

Bourne threw a pass to quarterback Bill Kinser on a touchdown play that covered 40 yards. Bourne

Pistons Take 1st Place In Western Half

By The Associated Press

The Detroit Pistons, rated only a so-so club in the pre-season estimates, have vaulted into the lead in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. on the strength of two impressive week-end victories.

The Pistons toppled the New York Knicks 115-104 Sunday night. Saturday night, they defeated the St. Louis Hawks 109-107. The triumphs gave Detroit a 9-9 record. The Hawks, who were also beaten by Cincinnati 106-100 Sunday, dropped to second with a 5-6 mark.

In another game Sunday night, Wilt Chamberlain's 37 points pushed Philadelphia to a 114-103 victory over Syracuse.

Chuck Noble was Detroit's big gun against New York. He pumped in 26 points, 19 of them in the first half as the Pistons rallied to take the lead late in the first period and never relinquished it. Willie Naulls was high for New York with 23 points.

Hub Reed, a former St. Louis player, helped Cincinnati end a nine-game losing streak. He scored 23 points against his one-time teammates. Bob Pettit was high for the Hawks with 39. Jack Twyman, the Royals' scoring ace, had 25.

Chamberlain, in addition to his 37 points, grabbed 24 rebounds as Philadelphia snapped a three-game losing streak. The Silt was outstanding in the fourth quarter, scoring seven points in the first four minutes to lift the Warriors' edge to 94-82. Larry Costello paced Syracuse with 22 points.

The Warriors thus gained revenge for Saturday night's 116-107 setback by Syracuse. Chamberlain had 28 points in that one. In other games Saturday, Minneapolis beat Cincinnati 99-93 in overtime and Boston nipped New York 128-127.

Two Cincinnati U. Stars On All-Conference Team

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Two versatile quarterbacks and a pair of high-scoring halfbacks make up the backfield of The Associated Press Missouri Valley Conference football all-stars for 1959, announced today.

Jack Lee of Cincinnati and Jerry Keeling of Tulsa, both quarterbacks and 1 and 2 respectively in total offense in the five-team loop, shared first team berths with halfbacks Ed Kovac, Cincinnati, one of the nation's leading scorers with 84 points, and Abner Haynes, North Texas State's great clutch player.

The North Texas State Eagles, assured of nothing worse than a tie for the 1959 title, and the Cincinnati Bearcats each placed three men on the first honor team.

Lee, 175-pound senior from Akron, Ohio, has been near or on top nationally among the passers all season. He's picked up 1,350 yards in completing 116 of 201 passes, seven of them for touchdowns.

Haynes, 180-pound senior from Dallas, has traveled at a 6.5-yard average rushing clip and has scored 76 points. Kovac, 195-pound senior from McKeesport, Pa., ranked high in total offense.

Ray Wichert, 210, Wichita junior, and Jim Leo, 216, Cincinnati senior, were named to the first-string end posts.

George Herring, 205, North Texas senior, and Jim Colvin, Houston, senior, won the tackle posts. Chuck Janssen, 200, Tulsa senior, and Bill Carrio, 205, North Texas senior, were placed at the first team guards, while Ronald Lakes, Wichita, a 238-pound junior was a solid choice at center.

Ma Messner, Cincinnati tackle from Ashland, Ohio, won a second team berth on the all-conference outfit.

Tulsa clashes with Wichita Thursday and a Hurricane victory will give the league its first three-way tie in 52-years of play. Houston and North Texas State have already finished with 3-1 records and Tulsa is 2-1 going in.

Casper Wins Another Title

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—There was no question today as to just who is the hottest golfer of the year—it's Billy Casper Jr.

Casper won the $15,000 Mobile Open Tournament Sunday for his fourth victory in the last five starts.

It gave him his fifth tournament win of the year and the $2,000 top prize raised his total winnings to more than $35,000 for 1959. He now is third only to Art Wall Jr. and Gene Littler in earnings.

Although Casper won by a two-stroke margin, the victory didn't come easy. And it resulted largely from inability of his closest pursuers to take advantage of a closing slump by the Apple Valley, Calif., pro.

Casper finished with a mediocre one-over-par 73 but his preceding two 68s carried him through. His card for the 72 holes was 71-68-73—210.

Hails Israel's Spirit
CLEVELAND (AP)—Brig. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall told 400 persons at Park Synagogue in suburban Cleveland Heights Sunday night that Israel must survive for the good of the United States. The general, an observer in the Sinai conflict three years ago, said he found in Israel the driving force which helped America's founders carve a great nation out of the wilderness.

Springfield Bows As Shack Departs

By The Associated Press

The Springfield Indians lost Eddie Shack to their parent New York Rangers Sunday and at the same time lost a chance to improve their position at the top of the American Hockey League standings.

The two events may not have been connected, but with the aid of two Shack goals, the Indians routed the last-place Quebec Aces 10-2 Saturday night. After Eddie returned to the Rangers Sunday, Springfield was beaten by Providence for the first time this season, 5-2.

As a result the race for the league lead remained a tight three-way affair with Springfield only three points ahead of Providence and Rochester, which trimmed Quebec 6-1 Sunday night.

Another three-way struggle developed farther down the line as the Buffalo Bisons profited from a 2-2 tie and a 4-2 victory in a torrid two-game series with the Hershey Bears. That left Buffalo and Hershey tied for fourth place with 19 points each, one ahead of the Cleveland Barons, who beat Providence 6-2 Saturday.

ONLY NEWSPAPERS SELL TOILETRIES FROM CHEMIST TO CUSTOMER!

TOILETRY MANUFACTURERS spent over $34,000,000 in 1958 in newspapers to reach their millions of men and women customers. This kind of spending, year after year, helps to pay off handsomely for the toiletry business whose sales according to the Bureau of the Census, are highest ever.

Retailers of toiletries, too, know the value of steady, strong newspaper advertising on the local scene. They can easily see the effects—their sales of toilet preparations are up, also. Most local advertisers are firm believers in the retailers' number one medium, the Total Selling daily newspaper. That's why they invested an overwhelming $2,375,000,000 last year in newspapers — six times as much as in radio; nine times as much as in television.

Put the combined national coverage and local impact of the Total Selling daily newspaper to work on your products. It sells goods—at all levels at the same time and in the same medium.

Today some claim that saturated animal fats build up cholesterol in the blood, while unsaturated vegetable oils may help reduce cholesterol. Since evidence is still inconclusive, your doctor is the one to advise you on this.

But you should know that Mrs. Filbert's Margarine is made from only the finest vegetable oils, which contain no cholesterol and are 90% unsaturated. Mrs. Filbert's is enriched with vitamins A and D, is highly digestible, low in salt.

Result: a nutritious, healthful source of quick food energy... a product you can enjoy with confidence. Compare Mrs. Filbert's to any spread, at any price.

In New York Slum Project

Reporters Reveal 'Bribe'

NEW YORK (AP)—Two newspaper reporters said on a television program Sunday night that a high city official tried to bribe them to stop investigating the city's slum-clearance program.

Fred J. Cook and Gene Gleason of the New York World-Telegram & Sun said they refused the offer. They did not identify the official, but said he still is in the city administration.

They said they were offered $75 to $100 a week and the money could be given in their wives' names.

Cook and Gleason said on WNTA-TV's "Open End" panel program that they had not written the story of the bribe offer at the time and had not reported it to the district attorney's office.

The World-Telegram & Sun did not make any immediate comment today.

The two reporters participated with other newspaper men on the TV program in a discussion of their recent article, "The Shame of New York." The article, about the city's Title 1 slum-clearance program, appeared as a special issue of the Nation, a weekly magazine.

Warren Moscow, executive assistant to Mayor Robert F. Wagner and a participant on the program, said that "no one that I know of in connection with the administration has raised that issue about writing this piece for the Nation." Moscow formerly was a political writer for the New York Times.

Another participant, James A. Wechsler, editor of the New York Post, said: "In terms of the press,

Death Sentence Changed To Life By DiSalle Order

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. Michael V. DiSalle today commuted the death sentence of Lewis B. Niday, 31, of Belpre, slayer of two, to life imprisonment.

Niday had been scheduled to die in Ohio Penitentiary's electric chair the day after Thanksgiving.

Niday was convicted of first-degree murder in the slaying of Mrs. Florence Cowdry on Aug. 23, 1958. He fatally shot the woman, with whom he had been friendly for several years, and her companion, George Robinson, as they left a Marietta bar.

DiSalle, an avowed foe of capital punishment, said he extended clemency because Niday is not a stable person, either mentally or emotionally.

Three women members of the jury that convicted Niday said they failed to recommend mercy because they thought that was up to the judge's discretion. Without a mercy recommendation from a jury, Ohio statute requires the death penalty.

The Pardon and Parole Commission recommended clemency action by the governor.

A prepared statement issued by the governor said:

"Under ordinary circumstances, it is not well to consider the post-trial reflections of jurors, but in the question as to whether he should be executed, we must certainly consider what appears to be the sincere statements of one-fourth of a jury. Any one of these individuals could have kept this man alive simply by the expedient of not voting for a conviction.

"Certainly society does not need the life of a mentally defective individual in order to protect itself.

"I feel that the ultimate ends of justice that must be taken into consideration when we weigh the punishment of those who have erred would not be served by executing an individual who should not have been free and who never, through all of his defective childhood, was given the opportunity of institutional care and treatment."

Lisbon Closes Cancer Study

LISBON — Lisbon's participation in the national cancer survey was completed Friday, according to Mrs. Jayne Calhoun and Mrs. Mary Alice Rumberger, co-chairmen.

Ten volunteer workers contacted 83 families, which included 164 individuals. Workers were Mrs. Vera Adomitis, Mrs. Sarah Andrus, Mrs. Helen Bloor, Mrs. Katherine Bush, Mrs. Ila Mae Cribfield, Mrs. Callie Dickens, Mrs. Mary Fry, Mrs. Catherine Pierce, Mrs. Freda Pribble and Mrs. Muriel Taylor.

The 83 families are part of the study that will continue six years. They are a part of 500,000 families from coast to coast participating in a massive "cancer prevention study."

The study has been developed around the principle that as much as possible should be learned about a great number of people and then checked against the incidence of cancer developing later among them in relation to these factors. The standard questionnaire is framed to clarify such points as occupational hazards in relation to cancer; whether or not a tendency toward the disease is more prevalent in some families; what relationship exists between cancer and other diseases; diet; food; beverages; smoking and types of smoking, such as inhaling and also air pollution.

Next year, the same volunteers will contact the same families. The succeeding four years the families will receive short questionnaires to be filled out and returned to the volunteer workers. All information is confidential and will be forwarded to the American Cancer Society in New York.

Americans spend an average of $3,683,000 every day on newspapers. More copies of daily newspapers are sold in the U. S. than packages of cigarettes, bottles of milk, or loaves of bread.

Church Is Dedicated

CLEVELAND (AP) — St. Stephen's Byzantine Rite Catholic Church in suburban Euclid was dedicated Sunday. THANKSGIVING DAY

Women's Day Event Staged At City Church

Mute Uses Sign Language To Describe Boy's Slaying

SOME 50 attended the "Women's Day" observance of the Dauntless Friendship Federated Club Sunday afternoon at the Sheridan African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Della Joyce was the mistress of ceremonies. Mrs. Edna Banks gave the welcome and Mrs. Elizabeth Reed of the Four Leaf Clover Club of Steubenville gave the response.

Mrs. Almeda Smith read the Scripture for the worship service and Mrs. Katherine Thomas offered prayer. Selections were given by the Young Peoples Choir of the Second Baptist Church and the Community Choir. Vocal numbers were given by Orin Smith Jr.

Readings were presented by Mrs. Emma Keys, Mrs. Mahala Richardson and Mrs. Mattie Bell. Recognition was given to Mrs. Amelia Adams, president of the Ohio Valley District; Mrs. Dorothy Peters, local president, and other past and present officers.

The Rev. L. G. Garrett, pastor, gave the closing remarks. The program was arranged by Mrs. Adams.

The social hour was held at the parsonage. A Thanksgiving scene and lighted tapers formed the setting for the buffet table. Mrs. Peters presided at the tea service.

Mrs. Lucille Monroe was social chairman assisted by Mrs. Wiliana Smith, Mrs. Banks, Mrs. Catherine Mills and Mrs. Margaret Veney.

OLATHE, Kan. (AP)—Thirteen-year-old George Martens, a deaf boy, used sign language and his untrained voice Sunday to tell how he killed an 8-year-old playmate.

Steven Moscoe pleaded for mercy before he died under a rain of knife blows Saturday afternoon, George said.

Coroner John Johnson said Steven's skull was fractured and he was stabbed 47 times in the head, neck, back and chest.

Martens told police he lured Steven into a clump of timber on the pretext of showing him a dead rabbit, and killed him to get revenge. Steven, he said, had run into George's bike repeatedly and damaged it.

Steven was the son of Marine Staff Sgt. Lawrence Moscoe of Newburgh, N.Y., who is assigned to Olathe Naval Air Station. The Moscoes have two younger children.

George's father, Henry Martens, is an Olathe building contractor. Olathe is on the southwestern fringe of Kansas City's metropolitan area.

Steven left home Saturday afternoon on his bike to play at a schoolground two blocks away. A search was started when he didn't return, and his body was found early Sunday about 200 yards from the nearest house.

Bicycle tracks in the field led officers to question young Martens.

At the scene of the slaying, George demonstrated with up and down motions of his hand how he repeatedly stabbed the Moscoe boy.

Although young Martens has a voice, his words are unintelligible to the average person. An interpreter relayed officers' questions in sign language, and told officers what the boy was saying.

Young Martens was turned over to juvenile authorities. Children 16 and under can't be prosecuted for murder in Kansas. But if the boy is ruled delinquent he can be confined to reform school until he is 21.

The first long motion picture shown in America was "Queen Elizabeth," with Sarah Bernhardt in the title role. It had its initial showing in New York City on July 12, 1912.

Car Insurance Savings Set For Good Driving Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — By mid-December Ohioans with good driving records will be able to save money on their automobile insurance.

Edward A. Stowell, state superintendent of insurance, said the plan applies to private autos, station wagons and some farm vehicles.

A special package policy will afford liability, collision, comprehensive and other insurance coverages at an over-all premium saving of 10 to 15 per cent under the cost of separate existing coverage.

A few companies previously received approval for plans similar to ones filed Friday by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriter and the National Automobile Underwriters Assn.

Good driving records may cut premiums up to 100 per cent above the basic rate, it was announced. Only drivers with no changeable accident or conviction of chargeable moving traffic violations during the past three years can qualify for the 15 per cent reduction. The lesser rate slowly disappears as the accidents increase.

A point system will be used to determine the rates, the announcement said.

Ike Winds Up Georgia Visit

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower flies back to Washington today to complete preparations for a good-will trip overseas such as no President ever has attempted.

Take-off time for the capital was an indefinite mid-afternoon. Eisenhower wanted to get in a final round of golf—the 12th in 12 days.

The President's three-continent swing to 11 nations starts Dec. 3. To try to get government affairs and himself into shape for the journey, Eisenhower holed up from Nov. 12 on in the Augusta National Golf Club. The pattern has been work in his office above the pro shop in the morning and 18 holes of golf in the afternoon.

The President looked ruddy, bouncy and fit when he and Mrs. Eisenhower attended services Sunday at Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church. They heard what the First Lady called a beautiful prayer that good will come from the trip and that the Lord give her husband strength for it.

Before he sets out, final decisions lie ahead in Washington on the new budget, for the year starting next July 1. It must be ready for the printer around mid-December and for Congress in January. Eisenhower will be gone until just before Christmas.

Also ahead of the President is a conference Nov. 30 which will bring eight congressional leaders of both parties to the White House to discuss the forthcoming tour.

AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The "golden sixties" are just around the corner — but Wall Street's attitude to them is tinged with caution.

Time was when stock market analysts spoke in glowing terms of the opportunities for profit that lay in the '60s. They based it greatly on the fact that the rash of wartime marriages in 1941-'45 produced a bumper crop of babies — and these "babies" would start marrying and setting up homes of their own beginning in the '60s.

They'd want new houses, new cars, new refrigerators, new television sets — everything a young family wants — and the companies that make these things would enjoy a booming business. Their stocks, too, would soar on the nation's exchanges, it was said.

As the '60s approach, however, they are clouded by — An unresolved steel strike. Strikes in other metalworking industries.

Stiffer interest rates. Increasing foreign competition. A drain of gold from the country.

Apparent Soviet superiority in missiles, and a continued cold war.

Veteran stock market analyst Edson Gould of Arthur Wiesenberger & Co., a distinctly upper-bracket investment house, looked at these elements and said: "As I see it, the outlook is not good."

'Gray Ladies' Program Set Up For City Hospital

The Executive Board of the Women's Auxiliary of City Hospital endorsed the new Red Cross Gray Ladies program for the hospital at a final meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. William E. Dunlap Jr. of Park Blvd.

Miss Nell Robinson, hospital director, and Mrs. Eda Golding, past president of the auxiliary, were guests.

Miss Robinson acquainted the board with the Gray Ladies program, which will be in effect soon at the hospital. The Gray Ladies will be trained by hospital personnel and nurses to perform personal services for the patients which trained nurses do not have the time to administer, Miss Robinson said.

They will perform functions such as letter writing, visiting patients, arranging flowers, conveying patients to the X-Ray room and work in the Pediatrics Department. Special emphasis will be put on services for elderly patients, Miss Robinson said.

The newly organized program was initiated by Mrs. J. Donald Thompson, chairman of Red Cross Volunteer Services, and will have Mrs. Robert Hays and Mrs. William Belaney as co-chairmen. Members of the Hospital Auxiliary, as well as other interested women in the community, were invited to participate by Miss Robinson.

During the business meeting, Mrs. C. H. Bailey reported on the auxiliary's current project of remodeling five private rooms in the hospital. The renovation is expected to cost about $6,000. The committee-in-charge includes Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Clair Chambers, co-chairmen; Mrs. Estelle McNicol and Mrs. William Harris.

Mrs. William Cooper, incoming president who will take office Jan. 1, said tentative plans for the spring Friendship tea include a talk on the history of the Auxiliary by Mrs. Richard C. Mayers, publicity chairman.

Mrs. T. Burton Kerr, chairman, reported that the chapel project of the Remembrance Fund had profited as a result of growing interest in the future chapel by members of the community.

Mrs. Dunlap announced that extra help will be used at the Gift Shop from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. daily during the holiday season.

The board voted to purchase Christmas wreaths for the hospital windows, as they have done for many years. Members also pledged support of a program of planned entertainment for the student nurses during the coming year.

Refreshments were served to 20 by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. James Bowen and Mrs. Robert Witherow. Mrs. Cooper presided at the tea table, which was decorated with a centerpiece of yellow and bronze mums and fall leaves on a white and gold cloth.

Mrs. Cooper will hold the next meeting for new officers and board members following her assumption of office in January.
